PRIDE OF PAINTERS

Painters of the Golden Gate Bridge have a full-time, year around job keeping one of the world's man-made wonders gleaming and clean. Nixon Asks Peace Drive; GOP Assailed On Cuba

Kennedy Hits GOP Policies

IN PENNSYLVANIA WITH KENNEDY (UPI) — Sen. John F. Kennedy called on Vice President Richard M. Nixon tonight to explain why the GOP administration failed to use "foresight and experience" to block a "Communist Victory in Castro's Cuba.

Climaxing a day of motor campaigning in western Pennsylvania, Kennedy accused the Eisenhower administration of "harassment" of "liberty-loving anti-Castro forces in Cuba and in other lands."

The Democratic presidential candidate pummelled Nixon on both domestic and foreign issues.

He accused Nixon of giving the country "changing definitions" and a "fuzzy image" of where he stands. And he told voters in job hungry mill towns the Republican party "vetoed" the needs of their area.

His strongest attack on GOP policy toward Cuba was made in a speech prepared for delivery tonight at Johnstown.

Kennedy said Nixon talks about "standing firm and standing up to Khrushchev" but he never mentions standing firm in Cuba—and if you can't stand up to Castro, how can you be expected to stand up to Khrushchev?

Kennedy said that both Nixon and Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan visited Cuba.

"Mr. Nixon calls his trip experience," he said. "But the American people cannot afford many more such experiences.

IKE AGREES WITH NIXON ON ISLANDS DEFENSE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House today injected President Eisenhower into the election campaign dispute over whether the United States should risk war if Red China attacks the Quemoy and Matsu islands.

It said Eisenhower agrees completely with Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon on whether — and when — the islands should be defended.

Outlines 3-Point Offensive

PHOENIX (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon campaigned in the southwest and midlands today following a major address in which he proposed an American peace offensive designed to prevent a "new Munich."

Nixon made the "peace offense" speech—a gravely serious talk—before 1,500 persons attending the world newspaper forum in Beverly Hills. In it, he outlined a three-point "offensive for peace and freedom" that would provide for a supreme defense council in consultation with President Eisenhower, a congress of leading U.S. citizens and a series of regional conferences of free nation leaders.

The vice president said if elected he would call upon President Eisenhower and New York Gov. Nelson E. Rockefeller for advice in a program to mobilize "America's brainpower and heart power."

Nixon broke down his foreign policy program into three basic parts:

1. Military—He would convene a council of joint chiefs of staff, secretaries of defense, Army, Navy and Air Force, plus ranking military commanders. This body would "re-examine the implications, both of Soviet policy, and the rapid pace of technological change."

2. Non-military — He also proposes a meeting the first week of December of 100 persons representing a cross-section of American life to recommend federal action the incoming chief executive could take to mobilize free world resources.

3. Diplomatic — Finally, he proposed a series of four regional meetings next spring for the heads of state of free nations of Latin America, Europe, Asia and Africa.

Baby Found Dead In Park

The dead body of a new born baby boy was found in Mill Valley's Old Mill Park shortly before noon today. The children of Mrs. James Dietrich, playing in the park, found the small body in a box and took it home, putting it in the garage at their home, 144 Lovell Avenue.

They told Mrs. Dieterich, who telephoned the fire department. The body was taken to Russell and Gooch, Mill Valley mortuary, for autopsy.

Cuba Trying Yank For Invasion Plot

COMBINED AP & UPI

HAVANA—American pilot Leslie Bradley, of Minneapolis, went on trial today charged with conspiring to launch an invasion of Nicaragua from Cuba last May with the approval of the U.S. State Department.

Bradley and his companions denied the charge in statements before a five-man revolutionary tribunal. But they admitted that they had been preparing in May to launch "an expedition . . . from the coast of some Central American country."

Among those on trial with Bradley were Chester Lacayo, leader of the Nicaraguan revolutionary movement, and exiled former Dominican Army Gen. Miguel Angel Ramirez Alcantara.

The prosecution charged that Cuban intelligence service operatives infiltrated the alleged invasion conspiracy and were able to break it up.

The government controlled newspaper El Mundo reported the capture of two more Americans who allegedly landed with a small invasion force in northeastern Cuba last week. They were identified as Allan D. Thompson and Paul Hughes.

El Mundo said they were in the landing force that included Anthony Zarba, of Somerville, Mass., who was executed Thursday along with 12 Cubans on charges of plotting to overthrow Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government.

Falling Trees Kill Two In Yosemite Park

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK (UPI) Two persons were crushed to death today under falling trees as strong winds whipped through famed Yosemite Valley.

Park rangers immediately declared an emergency, and began evacuating campgrounds. They also warned visitors at entrance stations that wind conditions were expected to make outings dangerous.

The fatalities were Kenneth C. Miner, 19, Fresno, and Margaret Gnall, 41 Roselle Park, N. J. They were killed at 6 a.m. while sleeping when a heavy gust buckled nearby trees.

Miner, a hotel employee, was in his tent at camp six, which is reserved for Yosemite Park and Curry Co. workers, while Miss Gnalls was camping near Yosemite Lodge in a cabin.

Mystery Sub Hunt Started

HONOLULU (UPI) — A Navy "hunter-killer" force knifed through the Pacific today to investigate a suspected foreign submarine that has been sighted off and on for more than a week.

The anti-submarine aircraft carrier Kearsarge and four destroyers were expected to reach the area of the sighting late today.

MISSILE SCARE HALTS TRAFFIC TO MARIN FORT

A missile scare sealed off Fort Barry from the public for about 45 minutes Thursday afternoon, Army officials disclosed today.

A Nike-Hercules missile, capable of carrying a nuclear warhead, stuck in the upright firing position during a routine test, according to the 40th Artillery Brigade headquarters. Army officials declined to say whether the missile was armed with nuclear or conventional warhead.

A spokesman said the missile was being hoisted into firing position when loss of electrical power in the launcher caused it to stick.

Unintentional detonation is precluded by safety devices, but traffic into the fort was halted as a precautionary measure, officials said.

Police Clash With Leftist Mob In Tokyo

TOKYO (UPI)—Some 1,000 policemen clashed with members of the finantical Zengakuren students federation today in a stick-swinging brawl in downtown Tokyo. At least 10 students were arrested immediately, and many suffered minor injuries.

The clash occurred just outside Hibiya Park in the heart of Tokyo where a few thousand students had massed to begin a march to join an estimated 50,000 other leftist demonstrators gathered around the parliament building and adjacent official residence of Premier Hayato Ikeda to protest the assassination of Japan's top leftist leader last Wednesday.

Novato Council Meets Behind Closed Doors

The Novato City Council met with its city attorney behind closed doors late yesterday to discuss the Wylie Subdivision adjoining Marin Golf and Country Club Estates.

The meeting was asked by City Atty. Clark M. Palmer Jr., who said he believed the confidential attorney-client relationship applied because of an implied threat of suit by Philip A. Kennedy, attorney for H. C. Wylie, who seeks to subdivide an 11-acre property.

When an Independent-Journal representative pointed out that there is an implied threat of litigation in every planning matter to come before any city council —as well as in many other matters presented to city councils — Palmer agreed but said he would never advise private "attorney-client" conferences "except in really serious cases."

The Independent-Journal was notified of the closed door meeting shortly before it started by City Administrator John Baget, who said he had told the Novato City Council when he accepted the administrator job that he would not attend any closed-door meeting unless the press had been notified and given opportunity to protest. The notice was insufficient for the I-J to send a representative to the meeting.

Neither Palmer, Mayor Wayne Womack nor Baget would go further today than to say the city's position in the Wylie subdivision matter had been discussed. The matter is on the agenda for next Tuesday night's council meeting.

Attorney Kennedy said today he had made no threat of suit against the City of Novato, although if the council upholds a planning commission turndown of the Wylie subdivision, "naturally our only recourse is to the courts."

Wylie applied to the city several months ago for a permet for an 11-acre subdivision of his lands adjoining those of Paul I. Trousdale in the Golf and Country Club Estates.

The planning commission turned it down on the basis that it failed to provide for an extension of San Jose Boulevard as a four-lane road, intended eventually to link Highway frontage with Indian Valley Road.

Wilson Sworn In As Marin Judge, Third Generation To Sit On Bench

By WAT TAKESHITA

Quiet, unassuming Joseph Gardner Wilson, 42, became judge of Marin Municipal Court yesterday to continue a tradition that has been in the family for three generations.

Master of ceremonies Roger P. Garety, Marin's district attorney, conducted the ceremonies simply, as requested by the new judge. Speeches were brief and interspersed with humor.

Wilson took the oath of office from Superior Court Judge Richard M. Sims, then turned to Judge Harold J. Haley, presiding judge of Marin Municipal Court, and announced: "I'd like to go to work."

About 150 persons listened as Judge Wilson promised "to render to the people of Marin County, a county which has treated me so well, the best that I can offer." He said he was "tremendously happy" to be appointed by Gov. Edmund G. Brown to succeed Judge Sims on the municipal bench. He expressed gratitude to "all my friends and for the spirit of welcoming friendship which typifies Marin."

Not once was Wilson's distinguished ancestral background mentioned. He is a third generation judge. In the 1860s, his grandfather Joseph Gardner Wilson became circuit judge at The Dalles, Ore.

His father Fred W. Wilson served on the same bench at The Dalles for 31 years, from 1918 to 1949. He died in 1955.

Honored guests included Judge Wilson's mother, Mrs. Fred W. Wilson of Oregon; his wife Betty Lovelace Wilson and their two children Paul, 13, and Sara, 11; his sister Mrs. John Buehler of San Francisco; brother-in-law Dr. John Buehler, resident psychiatrist at Langley Porter Clinic; mother-in-law Mrs. Paul H. Lovelace of San Rafael; and Sen. Joseph Rattigan of Sonoma.

Speakers were Superior Court Judges N. Charles Bru-

Cities Ready To Ask $150,000 For Roads

Representatives from seven Marin cities talked about demanding a quarter of a million dollars in road funds from the county yesterday, but settled on closer to $150,000.

The discussion on how to divide the money the county receives from gas taxes and auto registration (about $750,000 last year) was hashed over at a special meeting of mayors and councilmen from seven Marin cities at Alto. San Anselmo, Ross and Fairfax were not represented.

City officials loaded their guns for a showdown battle with the county board of supervisors Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the supervisor's chambers.

Give 25 per cent of the annual allocation to the county for maintenance of the rural roads which the whole county uses—about $167,000. Divide the remainer (about $583,000) between the county and the cities on the basis of population or car registration. Either way it amounts to about a 50-50 split.

While Mayor McInnis talked about $262,500 for the cities and $437,500 for the county, other representatives suggested something closer to $100,000 to $150,000 for the cities and the rest for the county.

As drawn in July, it would be about $196,225, but Marvin W. Brigham, county public works director suggested $100,000 as a more realistic figure.

Churches To Take Census In Marin

An inter-denomination census will be made Oct. 30 by 200 canvassers from Southern Marin churches to gather religious information, publicity chairman Ron Melen said today.

The census will take in the areas of the Tiburon Peninsula from Mill Valley to Belveron Gardens, all of Marin City and a large section of Mill Valley.

Purpose of the census is to get information on how many active churchgoers there are, how many people are church affiliated and the denominations of the people interviewed.

FIRST OF KIND

"It is the first inter-denominational census of its kind attempted in Southern Marin," Melen said.

There will be no evangelical questions asked, he said, since the approach to the census is strictly statistical.

Plans are to make 6,000 calls about 200 workers from seven congregations. Canvassers who will take part come from the following Mill Valley churches Melen said: The Methodist Church, The First Southern Baptist Church, Peace Lutheran Church, and Southern Assembly of God Church. Other canvassers will be from Tamalpais Valley Methodist Church, Marin City Presbyterian Church, and the Baptist Church of Tiburon.

MEETING PLANNED

There will be a preliminary meeting of canvassers at 8 p.m., Oct. 24 at the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary. On canvassing day, a luncheon meeting will be held at noon at the seminary cafeteria. Canvassing will begin after luncheon and is expected to last until 5 p.m.

Wales Evangelist Will Hold Meeting In Marin

An evangelist from Wales, Rev. Ivor Powell, will hold a one-week series of meetings at the First Baptist Church of Mill Valley beginning tomorrow, announced the church's pastor, Rev. John A. McDonald.

Rev. Powell is preaching in California churches by invitation of the American Baptist Convention. He is a native of Cardiff in South Wales and is the former pastor of a Baptist church in Barry, Glamorganshire, Wales.

The Welsh minister will preach at tomorrow's 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. worship services and at meetings Monday through Friday at 7 p.m. at the church, said Rev. McDonald.

Episcopal Youth To Visit Cathedral In San Francisco

High school students from St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael and from the Church of the Nativity in Marinwood will attend the annual Youth Vespers in Grace Cathedral in San Francisco tomorrow.

Rev. John D. Riley, rector of St. Paul's, said the members of the Episcopal Young Churchmen will leave by a chartered bus from St. Paul's at 1 p.m. and an hour later go on a tour of the cathedral until the vesper service begins at 3 p.m.

"Following the service the group will eat at a Chinatown restaurant," said Rev. Riley.

Christianity And Judaism Reluctant On Jesus' Decent

UP International
By LOUIS CASSELS

"Christianity and Judaism share one of the great reluctances of history. Both are reluctant to live openly and fully with the fact that Jesus was a Jew."

Those are the opening words of an article written by a distinguished Christian author for a leading Jewish magazine.

The author is Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review. His article on "The Jewishness of Jesus" appears in the current issue of American Judaism, monthly publication of the Reform Jewish Movement.

Cousins has some strong words to say about "the absurdity of Anti-Semitism" among Christians who claims a Jew as their Lord and Savior. But most of his article is addressed to a reverse form of prejudice which exists—quite understandably, in his opinion—among Jews.

JESUS' NAME

"If Jesus' name is invoked in a company of Jews," he says, "The effect on many of them is one of profound uneasiness . . . their reaction makes it seem as though a social contract were being violated."

Cousins says history has given Jews abundant reason for this "conditioned reflex."

Centuries of persecution by people who called themselves Christians have given Jews "an image of Jesus" that is associated with harshness and cruelty.

But this image is the very antithesis of what Jesus actually was like, Cousins says.

He appeals to Jews to look beyond the distorted image which they have derived from the "un-Christian words and acts of those who have spoken in his name," and to discover the real Jesus of Nazareth whose life and teachings are recorded in the new testament.

JESUS PROTECTS JUDAISM

"There is every reason for Judaism to lose its reluctance toward Jesus," Cousins says. "His towering spiritual presence is a projection of Judaism, not a repudiation of it.

"Jesus was proud to be a Jew. He asserted the Jewish heritage and sought to preserve and exault its values. But he did it within a universal context.

"No other figure—spiritual, philosophical, political or intellectual—has had a greater impact on human history. They (Jews) can take pride in the fact of His being and His ideas and His claim on history.

"And the rediscovery of Jesus can help Jews in the most vital respect of all; he can help them to forgive their tormentors — including those who have done evil to them in Jesus' name."

Orphange Scout Troop To Be Led By Laymen

The Men's Fellowship of the First Baptist Church of San Anselmo, at a dinner meeting to be held Tuesday at the church at 6:30 p.m., will discuss plans for its sponsorship of a Boy Scout troop at the Sunny Hills Orphanage in San Anselmo, announced Dr. A. B. Carter, troop committee head.

The Baptist men acted upon a suggestion by Stross Smith, chief scout executive for Marin County, and member of the church. He "presented the opportunity for Christian service in this field," said Carter.

HARVEST FESTIVAL

Three-year-old Robin Howard of San Rafael trys to decide which of the represented items to be sold at a "Harvest Festival" bazaar at the First Presbyterian Church of Santa Venetia Oct. 29, she likes best. Holding up the objects during a preparation day at the church this week are Mrs. James Pack (left) and Mrs. Alfred McNulty (center). Mrs. Earl Berg sprays color on Christmas decorations for one of the many booths to be at the Bazaar, the proceeds of which will go toward construction of new Sunday school rooms. Churches To Take Census In Marin

An inter-denomination census will be made Oct. 30 by 200 canvassers from Southern Marin churches to gather religious information, publicity chairman Ron Melen said today.

The census will take in the areas of the Tiburon Peninsula from Mill Valley to Belveron Gardens, all of Marin City and a large section of Mill Valley.

Purpose of the census is to get information on how many active churchgoers there are, how many people are church affiliated and the denominations of the people interviewed.

FIRST OF KIND

"It is the first inter-denominational census of its kind attempted in Southern Marin," Melen said.

There will be no evangelical questions asked, he said, since the approach to the census is strictly statistical.

Plans are to make 6,000 calls about 200 workers from seven congregations. Canvassers who will take part come from the following Mill Valley churches Melen said: The Methodist Church, The First Southern Baptist Church, Peace Lutheran Church, and Southern Assembly of God Church. Other canvassers will be from Tamalpais Valley Methodist Church, Marin City Presbyterian Church, and the Baptist Church of Tiburon.

MEETING PLANNED

There will be a preliminary meeting of canvassers at 8 p.m., Oct. 24 at the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary. On canvassing day, a luncheon meeting will be held at noon at the seminary cafeteria. Canvassing will begin after luncheon and is expected to last until 5 p.m.

Wales Evangelist Will Hold Meeting In Marin

An evangelist from Wales, Rev. Ivor Powell, will hold a one-week series of meetings at the First Baptist Church of Mill Valley beginning tomorrow, announced the church's pastor, Rev. John A. McDonald.

Rev. Powell is preaching in California churches by invitation of the American Baptist Convention. He is a native of Cardiff in South Wales and is the former pastor of a Baptist church in Barry, Glamorganshire, Wales.

The Welsh minister will preach at tomorrow's 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. worship services and at meetings Monday through Friday at 7 p.m. at the church, said Rev. McDonald.

Episcopal Youth To Visit Cathedral In San Francisco

High school students from St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael and from the Church of the Nativity in Marinwood will attend the annual Youth Vespers in Grace Cathedral in San Francisco tomorrow.

Rev. John D. Riley, rector of St. Paul's, said the members of the Episcopal Young Churchmen will leave by a chartered bus from St. Paul's at 1 p.m. and an hour later go on a tour of the cathedral until the vesper service begins at 3 p.m.

"Following the service the group will eat at a Chinatown restaurant," said Rev. Riley.

Christianity And Judaism Reluctant On Jesus' Decent

UP International
By LOUIS CASSELS

"Christianity and Judaism share one of the great reluctances of history. Both are reluctant to live openly and fully with the fact that Jesus was a Jew."

Those are the opening words of an article written by a distinguished Christian author for a leading Jewish magazine.

The author is Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review. His article on "The Jewishness of Jesus" appears in the current issue of American Judaism, monthly publication of the Reform Jewish Movement.

Cousins has some strong words to say about "the absurdity of Anti-Semitism" among Christians who claims a Jew as their Lord and Savior. But most of his article is addressed to a reverse form of prejudice which exists—quite understandably, in his opinion—among Jews.

JESUS' NAME

"If Jesus' name is invoked in a company of Jews," he says, "The effect on many of them is one of profound uneasiness . . . their reaction makes it seem as though a social contract were being violated."

Cousins says history has given Jews abundant reason for this "conditioned reflex."

Centuries of persecution by people who called themselves Christians have given Jews "an image of Jesus" that is associated with harshness and cruelty.

But this image is the very antithesis of what Jesus actually was like, Cousins says.

He appeals to Jews to look beyond the distorted image which they have derived from the "un-Christian words and acts of those who have spoken in his name," and to discover the real Jesus of Nazareth whose life and teachings are recorded in the new testament.

JESUS PROTECTS JUDAISM

"There is every reason for Judaism to lose its reluctance toward Jesus," Cousins says. "His towering spiritual presence is a projection of Judaism, not a repudiation of it.

"Jesus was proud to be a Jew. He asserted the Jewish heritage and sought to preserve and exault its values. But he did it within a universal context.

"No other figure—spiritual, philosophical, political or intellectual—has had a greater impact on human history. They (Jews) can take pride in the fact of His being and His ideas and His claim on history.

"And the rediscovery of Jesus can help Jews in the most vital respect of all; he can help them to forgive their tormentors — including those who have done evil to them in Jesus' name."

Orphange Scout Troop To Be Led By Laymen

The Men's Fellowship of the First Baptist Church of San Anselmo, at a dinner meeting to be held Tuesday at the church at 6:30 p.m., will discuss plans for its sponsorship of a Boy Scout troop at the Sunny Hills Orphanage in San Anselmo, announced Dr. A. B. Carter, troop committee head.

The Baptist men acted upon a suggestion by Stross Smith, chief scout executive for Marin County, and member of the church. He "presented the opportunity for Christian service in this field," said Carter.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Moss Hart Improved

TORONTO (AP) — Moss Hart, 55, Broadway director and playwright, was reported "resting well" in a hospital early today after suffering a heart attack in his hotel room.

Congo Roundup

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—The high commission set up by strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu to run the Congo today began a round-up of "undesirables," including a number of foreign diplomats.

Guinea Envoy J. Toukara was ordered out of the Congo.

License Row

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Brown has rebuked the State Board of Chiropractic Examiners and asked its chairman to step down for what he called mishandling of a license application.

The governor said yesterday that the board changed marks on the license examination of a chiropractor with a 24-year-old criminal record to lower his score.

The man was denied a license, but later granted one after he took the case to court. His name was not disclosed.

Asks Summit

SCARBOROUGH, England (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan called today for an East-West summit conference to deal with the "potentially dangerous problem" of Germany and Berlin.

The prime minister told a Conservative party conference here "Negotiations on Germany and Berlin will have to be resumed."

Trial In Turkey

YASSIADA, Turkey (UPI) — Prosecution witnesses testified today that former President Celal Bayar made $2,000 by selling to the Ankara zoo a dog given him by the king of Afghanistan.

Concentration of testimony on the sale of the dog came during the second day of the mass trial of Bayar, ex-premier Adnan Menderes and more than 400 other former top leaders of Turkey on charges ranging from treason up to conspiring to impose a dictatorship on the country.

Work Despite Strike

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP) — A sprawling gaseous difusion plant — Oak Ridge's largest atomic energy facility—continued to operate today despite a strike by some 1,800 union workers.

Supervisory personnel relieved workmen at their jobs as members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, Local 9-288, posted pickets around the plant at midnight.

Protests On Tourists

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is expected to protest to the Soviet Union against the detention of two Americans traveling as tourists who were held incommunicado by Soviet authorities for seven weeks.

The State Department appeared to be proceeding cautiously in the case, however. Officials said they wanted to get a full report from Harvey C. Bennett and Mark I. Kaminsky before taking action.

Doctor Rips Loopholes For Surgery

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sixty per cent of the surgery performed in the United States is done by doctors who are not trained surgeons, according to the new president of the American College of Surgeons.

Dr. I. S. Ravdin of Philadelphia, making his presidential address last night at the close of a five-day meeting of the college, said those operations are performed by men who are not essentially general practitioners. Many of them, he charged, are not qualified for the job.

Ravdin said the reason for the situation is that state medical licenses alone permit a doctor to do surgery.

"Can the college do other than to continue to assail this practice, which is not in the best interest of patients?" he asked.

Earlier, Ravdin told a news conference that he favors a broad new system of federal scholarship for medical students and specialists.

West Disarm Plan Given Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) Rivaling the arms proposal Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev put before the United Nations General Assembly, the United States, Britain and Italy put in a resolution last night calling for resumption of East-West disarmament negotiations.

The competing plan slated to go before the United Nations top political committee next week, have three key differences.

1. The Soviet resolution calls for quick conclusion of a treaty for general and complete disarmament. The Western proposal would have agreement first on arms measures "capable of early implementation."

2. Khrushchev makes disarmament negotiations conditional on a revamping of the U.N. secretariat, with a three-member board of Communist, Western and Neutral nations replacing Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. The Western plan calls for no such change.

3. The Western plan calls for more specific control requirements. It specifies that controls should guarantee that armaments are reduced as agreed and remain reduced. The Soviet proposal calls only for control "from beginning to end" of the progressive stages of disarmament.

Both plans called for an international control organization under the United Nations but the Soviets want to include all the 99 nations in the world body on a super-panel.

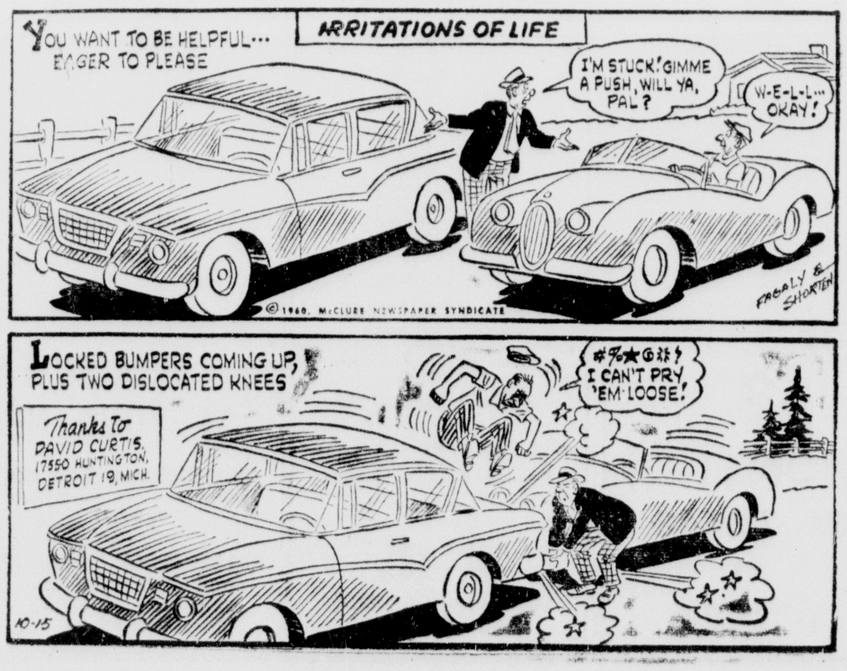
THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW



ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Oct. 15, the 289th day of the year with 77 more in 1960.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning star is Mars.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1844, Friedrich Nietzsche, German philosopher, was born.

In 1914, the Clayton Anti-Trust Act, supplementing the Sherman Anti-Trust Act of 1890 became law.

In 1917, the most famous spy of World War I, Mati Hari, was executed at Vincennes barracks outside Paris.

In 1945, the former French Premier Pierre Laval was executed by a firing squad for betraying his country to Nazi Germany during World War II.

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, Western District headquarters, Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden) Gate):

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Oct. 15, the 289th day of the year with 77 more in 1960.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning star is Mars.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1844, Friedrich Nietzsche, German philosopher, was born.

In 1914, the Clayton Anti-Trust Act supplementing the Sherman Anti-Trust Act of 1890 became law.

In 1917, the most famous spy of World War I, Mati Hari, was executed at Vincennes barracks outside Paris.

In 1945, the former French Premier Pierre Laval was executed by a firing squad for betraying his country to Nazi Germany during World War II.

Corte Madera Motel Robber Suspect Nabbed

Vacha, who also uses the alias Harold Vancannon, was identified by Mrs. Helen Woodhall, assistant manager of the motel, as the man who held her up on Sept. 23 after chatting with her for a short time. As she turned her back, she said, he pushed her into a chair and helped himself to $170 from the cash drawer.

San Anselmo police discovered that a man of the same discription had checked out of a motel there shortly after the robbery. They came up with a photo from their files which Mrs. Woodhall picked out of a group of pictures.

Vacha, a 6 foot 3 inch, 200 pounder, was arrested on a robbery warrant issued by Marin Municipal Court with bail set at $5,000. Corte Madera investigator Harold Hockett says Vacha will probably be returned from Fresno Monday.

Autos Unhurt, But Drivers Battle It Out

Two cars escaped without a scratch this morning after a near collision, but the irate drivers suffered face cuts a few moments later when they jumped out of their respective cars and slugged each other on San Rafael's main street.

San Rafael police said Paul M. Rodkin of San Francisco was headed east on Fourth street about 3:35 a.m. He had to swerve to miss a car being backed from a parking space by Albert A. Rezac of 48 Meadow Avenue, San Rafael.

Police said they were questioning the men when Rodkin took a swing at Rezac, cutting his left cheek. Police separated the men, ending round one. The interrogation continued.

With the battle split 1 to 1, the men felt so much better, they refused to sign complaints against each other, police reported.

Kuhe was driving north on U.S. 101 about 2:10 a.m. in the middle lane, the CHP said. On the north end of the Waldo Tunnel he switched to the right lane to pass another vehicle, skidded across the highway and hit the embankment on the west edge of the road, reported the CHP. The small car flipped onto its right side.

Kuhe, an automobile salesman in Walnut Creek, was cited for driving at an unsafe speed.

Judge Thomas, appointed to the bench a year ago, said he has been known as "baby judge" all this time. "Now I'm happy to see I'm getting a baby brother."

All speakers referred to Judge Wilson's gentleness, humility, integrity, diligence, and sense of responsibility. Judge Brusatori reemphasized the judge's prayer. Judge Haley described Wilson's new responsibility as one that "touches the lives of more people than any other court."

Corte Madera Motel Robber Suspect Nabbed

Vacha, who also uses the alias Harold Vancannon, was identified by Mrs. Helen Woodhall, assistant manager of the motel, as the man who held her up on Sept. 23 after chatting with her for a short time. As she turned her back, she said, he pushed her into a chair and helped himself to $170 from the cash drawer.

San Anselmo police discovered that a man of the same discription had checked out of a motel there shortly after the robbery. They came up with a photo from their files which Mrs. Woodhall picked out of a group of pictures.

Vacha, a 6 foot 3 inch, 200 pounder, was arrested on a robbery warrant issued by Marin Municipal Court with bail set at $5,000. Corte Madera investigator Harold Hockett says Vacha will probably be returned from Fresno Monday.

Five Arrested For Holdup Spree

EMERYVILLE (UPI) — Four men and a woman were arrested near their hotel here last night on suspicion of staging several Bay Area holdups that police said netted about $5,000 during the past week.

Taken into custody were Janice Martin, 22, Fresno; Ronald Perrin, 19, and his brother, Richard, 18, James Chelossi, 23, and his brother Dante, 21, all of San Francisco.

Ignacio Man Forgery Suspect

F. William Anderson, 30, of Ignacio was jailed last night on suspicion he forged the name of his roommate and cashed two checks for $95 at a Novato bank.

Brian Bullen, 34, of 770 San Jose Boulevard, Ignacio, reported that a teller at the First National Bank in Novato told him Anderson had cashed the two checks with Bullen's name on it. Bullen said he knew nothing about the checks.

Anderson had been living with Bullen, and was scheduled to leave for Arizona last night. Anderson was arrested in Sausalito.

SCALP TREATMENT — These excited San Rafael High School students are cheering for their Bulldogs to scalp the Tam Indians in their Marin League football game at Kentfield last night. TD INTERCEPTION — Tam defensive quarterback Tom Yarborough grabs a pass on San Rafael's 38-yard line and goes all the way for point country in first period to give "Tam 6 more points. Pass was from Bulldog quarterback Jack Sovereign and intended for end Randy Petrini who is on ground. Tam went on to score its 19th victory in a series with San Rafael that started in 1907. San Rafael has 16 wins and there have been five tied.

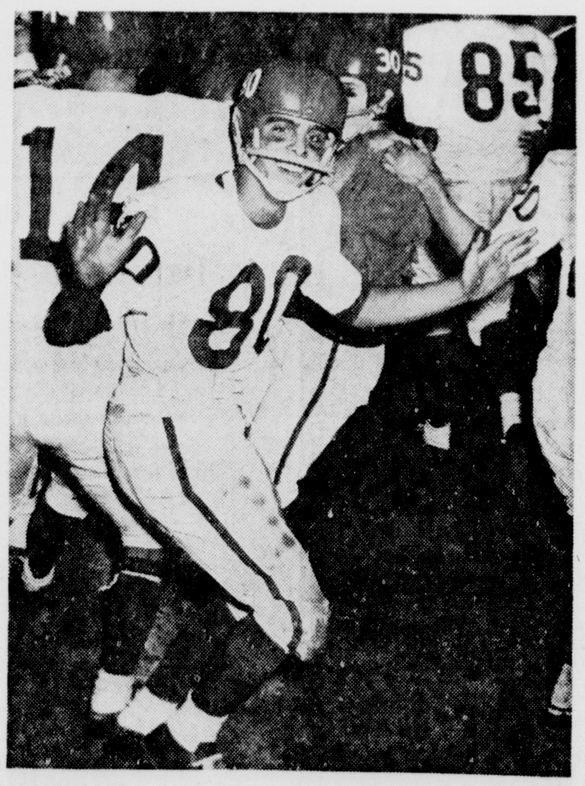
CRUCIAL PLAY — Meanwhile, at San Rafael High's field the Novato Hornets and Redwood Giants were staging a thrilling battle, eventually won by Redwood, 19-14. Here is a key play in the game: Novato fullback Dennis McCormick hurdles over fallen Giant player on a brilliant run to Redwood's 12 yard line. However, play was nulified by a penalty, Redwood intercepted next pass and rallied to win. Story on next page.

NOVATO MASCOT — Tony Yarish of Novato holds the Novato school's mascot Hornet, but young Tony doesn't look to happy. Reason: The Redwood Giants had just tallied to take the lead in their see-saw thriller and hand Novato its first loss of the season.

INTERCEPTION — Novato's black-shirted Bob Sparrow goes up to intercept pass on try for extra point after Redwood's second touchdown in third period. Pass was thrown by Ricky Basco intended for John Whitney (80).

WINNING TD — Redwood halfback Keith Norton crashed over with touchdown in third period that put the never-say-die Giants in the 19-14 lead by which they defeated the Hornets. Play was set up after Mike Alessio ran back a punt 45 yards to deep in Novato territory.

COME ON, GANG — When things looked gloomly for Redwood, trailing 6-14, Coach Bob Troppman was on the sidelines shouting encouragement to his Giants. In handing Novato its first loss of the season, the Giants also maintained their undefeated record in two years of Marin League competition.



CRAZY, MAN — Redwood end John Whitney wears an "out of this world" expression to tell the I-J photographer that the final gun signalled victory for the Giants. That's all, folks.

Redwood Rallies To Beat Novato In 19-14 Thriller

By JIM GILMARTIN

Redwood High School's football Giants apparently learned a good lesson from the Pittsburgh Pirates this week: Let the opposition roll up the impressive statistics just so long as you're the boss on the final scoreboard.

The Pirates did just that to the Yankees in the World Series and the Redwood troops did likewise to the Novato Hornets last night at San Rafael to score a thrilling 19-14 victory in the opening Marin Athletic League game.

Outplayed in every statistical department, the poised and polished Giants nevertheless came through when the blue chips were down to score two touchdowns in the third period to overcome a 6-14 deficit, and then hang on for dear life in the final minutes to whip this Novato team rated strong championship contender.

And like Pittsburgh's Bill Mazeroski, Redwood had its hero of heros in the diminutive (5-4, 145) halfback Mike Alessio.

His "home run" heroics were: 1. Returning the opening kickoff 82 yards to a touchdown; 2. Returning a punt 45 yards to set up the winning touchdown in the third quarter; and 3. Intercepting a desperate Novato pass in the final 50 seconds to kill a threatening Hornet drive.

There were more heroes, too. Like Dave Ruta who in the third period put Redwood back in contention by zipping 62 yards to a TD with an intercepted pass just when it looked like Novato would bust the game wide open. But more of that later.

After Alessio electrified the estimated crowd of 3,700 customers with his 92-yard TD run on the opening kickoff, Mike then tried to kick the seventh point. But, a 15-yard penalty nullified the first try and Jim Shears blocked the second attempt.

Then the Hornets got down to business and started rolling impressive yardage. They marched 64 yards in 11 plays with Dennis McCormick scoring from four yards out on the first play of the second period and tackle John Cook kicked the extra point for a 7-6 lead which remained thus until the half.

Novato kept rolling after the intermission and sent track star and fullback Bill Henderson racing on a sensational 60-yard TD run, followed by Cook's second placement, for a 14-6 third quarter advantage which looked pretty safe at the time.

Then strange things began to happen, just when Novato appeared to be ready to bust the game wide open. The Hornets smothered Redwood's offense and took over again, goalbent for election. With the ball on Redwood's 28, the Hornets sent McCormick around end on a brilliant hurdling, squirming run to inside the 15, only to have the crucial gainer nullified by a penalty.

This was the key point in the game for the foul put Novato back to the 47 and on the next play Hornet quarterback Bob Sparrow elected to pass and, rushed badly, threw right into the arms of Ruta on Redwood's 38 and little Dave rammed it right back down the Hornets' throats with the 62-yard TD run.

Now, the Giants were back in the game which seemed all but lost just an instant before.

With only the two point deficit, the inspired Giants got tough after the ensuing kickoff and forced Novato to punt. Unfortunately for the North Marin lads, they booted it to Alessio who, running like a cat on a hot tin roof, jitter-bugged 45 yards to Novato's 15. From there slick ball handling Giant QB Roger Siemens directed a five-play drive climaxed by Keith Norton's four yard plunge for the winning touchdown. Alessio's kick was good for the 19th point.

But, a great defensive effort was still to come form Redwood, for midway through the fourth period Novato's John Cook recovered a fumble on the Hornet 65 to set up a dramatic race against the clock. Sparrow handed off to McCormick and Henderson in a series of five plays that moved it to Redwood's 37. Here, on a fourth down situation, Sparrow completed an 11-yard pass to outstanding Ron Grayson and it was first down for Novato just 26 yards away from victory!

But here, with little more than a minute to go, the Giant defense showed its colors. Guard Bill Weckel temporarily wrecked the Novato hopes by crashing the pass-minded Sparrow for an eight yard loss and on the next play Alessio completely killed Novato with his interception.

When asked to name standouts, Redwood Coach, Bob Troppman sounded like a sergeant calling roll—"Everybody was great," the elated mentor cheered. He heaped praise on Alessio, Ruta, Norton and Siemens in the backfield and called out a gang of others, particularly the great linebacker Mike Hoffman ("He's the hub of our defense"). Others mentioned were Mike Walsh, John Clum, Ralph Woods, John Whitney, Herb Schriebner and Rick Basco.

Novato showed it will be tough, particularly when you consider the Hornets played without two of their very best players — end Lu Haas and wingback Fred McElroy, both sidelined with injuries.

The running of Henderson, McCormick and John Picchi was impressive (see statistics) and Cook and Grayson were standouts in a good, tough line.

Next week Novato goes against top-notch Drake and Redwood invades San Rafael Bulldog territory. Defending champion Redwood will be out to protect its distinguished record of never losing a Marin League game.

Speedy Tam Injuns Zip Past San Rafael For 20-6 Victory

By PAUL MILLER

At Kentfield stadium last night the San Rafael High Bulldogs—with their sparker Billy Roberts out of most of the action because of injury—were beset upon by penalties, pass interceptions, recovered fumbles and fast running Indians from Tamalpais High.

The result was a 20-6 rout by the Indians in the schools' 40th rivalry game, and first Marin League tilt of the season.

San Rafael's alert defensive end, Rich Robertson, spared the Bulldogs the humiliation of a shutout when, in the last four and a half seconds of the game, he recovered a fumble by Tam quarterback "Tex" Hamilton on the Indians' one-inch line.

Jack Sovereign, just before Robertson's recovery, had led his club from its own 24 to the Indian 5, but then lost the leather in failing by one yard to make a first down. Sovereign avenged himself and his disheartened team by scoring one inch over center in the last second of the game.

TAM FIREWORKS

About 4,500 fans watched play get off to a lethargic start until red and blue fireworks flared about the middle of the first quarter. It was the Indians' second down on their own 47 when they blasted Pat (Mercury) Morgan around right end at the Bulldogs. Before the K-9s could get all four legs around, "Merc" had 53 more yards and 6 more points to his already loaded statistical records.

Four plays after the TD, Bulldog quarterback Sovereign's 11-yard pass intended for end Randy Petrini was intercepted by Tam's defensive quarterback Tom Yarborough on the Bulldog 40. Big Tom went right on into the end zone with his prize. The PAT was tallied after a center plunge by Rich Hamilton and it was 13-0 in the first quarter.

Tam's last TD push came in the first minute of the final period with a 28-yard pass play from Tex Hamilton to end Ed Collins. The conversion was good from the toe of Norm Kreuter.

Except for San Rafael's final period rally which was sparked by halfback Billy Roberts who played only a few minutes of the second quarter, the only other time the Bulldogs were set up for a score was during the second period after guard Sandy English recovered a Tam fumble on the Indian 15. But in two plays and one yard the Bulldogs blew their chance with a fumble of their own which was recovered by Kreuter on the Tamalpais 14.

DORNBACH STARS

The most spectacular series of plays was initiated by Indian tackle Pete Dornbach, a 190-pound senior who was undoubtedly lineman of the night, if not of the week.

At the end of the third period Tam was forced on a fourth down to kick from its own 10. The punt was received by San Rafael halfback Gary Ledson who fumbled the ball on Tam's 39-yard line, where it was recovered by Dornbach. From the 39, quarterback Hamilton and Morgan ran their infamous (to opponents) just-before-you're-tackled lateral play around right end for a 32-yard onslaught. Hamilton hit Collins on the next play for the TD pass.

Tackle Dornbach was not through for the evening, however, for he managed to intercept a pass by San Rafael's Sovereign on the San Rafael 46.

Tam's Head Coach James Hanretty, gratified with his victory but still in some pain from a rib injury he suffered in a practice mishap this week, said San Rafael had a "hard working and effective defensive team and gave our running game considerable trouble."

Head Coach for the Bulldogs, Dick Read, blamed much of his club's defeat on "a few key mistakes at crucial periods," and the loss of important yardage from penalties (San Rafael had six penalties for 30 lost yards).

"Hanretty's boys played well," said Read.

AP Names Murtaugh 'Manager Of Year'

NEW YORK (AP)—Danny Murtaugh, pilot of the World Champion Pittsburgh Pirates, was voted National League "Manager of the Year" yesterday in the annual Associated Press poll.

TONIGHT IT'S DRAKE VS. MARIN CATHOLIC

Drake High's Pirates, equipped with a psychological advantage to supplement their excellent and experienced personnel, tackle the Marin Catholic Wildcats tonight at Kentfield in each team's first Marin Athletic League Football encounter of the season.

Upset last week by Analy, 19-15 after three straight wins, the Pirates will be fired up to a psychological peak against a slim Marin Catholic team that trounced its most recent opponent. Drake is the favorite in this one, with or without the "mental" edge.

The game will serve as Marin Catholic's "homecoming" and Wildcat mentor Harry Moore probably wishes he could enlist the services of some of the alumni in the stands. Moore has only 10 reserves on the bench and his two first string halfbacks, Gary Ragghianti and George Nunes, are both injured and unable to play.

Drake, on the other hand, is near its physical peak with only end Bill Collins on the sick list. He will be able to see some limited action, Coach Bob Franceschini said.

Marin Catholic has one win, one loss and a tie while Drake has a 3-1 record. An interesting angle: Much of Drake's yardage has been on end runs; all touchdowns against Marin have been around end.

Fullback Scott Moriarty is Drake's leading ball carrier with an average of approximately 130 yards per game and an 8.5 average per carry.

Stoneham Agrees To Study Possibility Of Television

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco Giant President Horace Stoneham told the San Francisco Board of Supervisors yesterday he is willing to discuss the televising of his club's road games when he returns from Japan on Nov. 18.

He admitted the problem needed re-examination, but at the same time noted that major league clubs with the highest home attendance were those that permitted little or no television of games.

Stoneham, in a statement to Supervisor Henry R. Rolph, reminded the supervisor that the city also has a financial interest in the attendance of the Giants' games.

Stoneham had signed a long-term contract with Skiatron, Inc., a pay TV operation, but the company is now out of business.

Stoneham's statements came after San Francisco Supervisor Joseph M. Casey asked the board to adopt a resolution calling for the Giants to lift the ban on television on road games. He said televised road games would heighten interest and might lead to increased attendance at home.

His resolution was referred to the board's committee on education, parks and recreation.

Rod-Gun Meeting Set

Hamilton Rod and Gun Club will hold a general meeting Monday, 8 p.m., at the Hamilton Air Force Base small arms range, Secretary Arley L. Atwell announced yesterday.

Membership is open to the public as well as military personnel, Atwell said, and prospective members are invited to attend the meeting.

BEARS FEARED

49ers Underdogs In Chicago Game

CHICAGO (UPI) — San Francisco 49ers will be slight underdogs when they battle the Chicago Bears tomorrow at Wrigley Field in a battle between two of the co-leaders of the Western Division.

The Bears have not looked too sharp in winning two of their first three games. They were slaughtered by Baltimore and almost lost last week when Los Angeles put on a last-half blitz.

But the Bears still have won nine out of their last 10 games. They took their last seven contests in 1959.

Coach Red Hickey said today he especially feared Rick Casares, the big Bear fullback who had a good day against the Rams last Sunday. He also praised Bear receivers Angelo Coia and Johnny Morris and the traditionally rugged Bear defense.

The 49ers may come up with a few surprises for this one. They have worked out all week in secret at Detroit's Briggs Stadium in preparation for the Bears.

In another surprise move, Hickey has named young John Brodie to start at quarterback. The 49ers have won two in a row, but scored only 27 points.

"That's why I'm starting Brodie," Hickey explained. "We haven't moved the ball well. We did move it well with him in there. Perhaps he can keep it going against the Bears."

In another unusual aspect of the game, the 49ers have drilled all week against possible chattering tactics.

The Rams charged the Bear defense with chanting numbers last week in a successful effort to confuse the offense.

The 49ers have drilled all week with the defense shouting numbers and the offensive linemen learning to distinguish the voices of quarterbacks John Brodie and Y. A. Tittle from the rest.

The talking tactic is strictly illegal, but the 49ers claim that the referees have been known to become a trifle forgetful in the bailiwick of Papa George Halas — one of the founders of the National Football League.

Raiders Host Patriots In Kezar Tussle

The Oakland Raiders and the Boston Patriots square off at San Francisco's Kezar Stadium tomorrow with the contest figured as a toss-up.

Raider General Manager Chet Soda was hoping for a crowd of 15,000, but added "a lot depends on the weather."

The Patriots were off to a slow start, but looked like champs in murdering the Los Angeles Chargers last week, 35-0.

"It's a funny season, even for a beginning one," says Dom DiMaggio, ex-big league baseball star and a stockholder in the Patriots. "We've lost every game at home, but we always seem to win on the road."

The story is almost identical for Oakland, which has won two out of three on the road after being underdogs in all three contests. The Raiders have dropped two straight at Kezar and looked especially inept in both contests.

Oakland will start Tommy Flores at quarterback against the Patriots, with the veteran Babe Parilli expected to see plenty of action, too.

Kickoff time is 1:30 p.m.

Redwood Rallies To Beat Novato In 19-14 Thriller

By JIM GILMARTIN

Redwood High School's football Giants apparently learned a good lesson from the Pittsburgh Pirates this week: Let the opposition roll up the impressive statistics just so long as you're the boss on the final scoreboard.

The Pirates did just that to the Yankees in the World Series and the Redwood troops did likewise to the Novato Hornets last night at San Rafael to score a thrilling 19-14 victory in the opening Marin Athletic League game.

Outplayed in every statistical department, the poised and polished Giants nevertheless came through when the blue chips were down to score two touchdowns in the third period to overcome a 6-14 deficit, and then hang on for dear life in the final minutes to whip this Novato team rated strong championship contender.

And like Pittsburgh's Bill Mazeroski, Redwood had its hero of heros in the diminutive (5-4, 145) halfback Mike Alessio.

His "home run" heroics were: 1. Returning the opening kickoff 82 yards to a touchdown; 2. Returning a punt 45 yards to set up the winning touchdown in the third quarter; and 3. Intercepting a desperate Novato pass in the final 50 seconds to kill a threatening Hornet drive.

There were more heroes, too. Like Dave Ruta who in the third period put Redwood back in contention by zipping 62 yards to a TD with an intercepted pass just when it looked like Novato would bust the game wide open. But more of that later.

After Alessio electrified the estimated crowd of 3,700 customers with his 92-yard TD run on the opening kickoff, Mike then tried to kick the seventh point. But, a 15-yard penalty nullified the first try and Jim Shears blocked the second attempt.

Then the Hornets got down to business and started rolling impressive yardage. They marched 64 yards in 11 plays with Dennis McCormick scoring from four yards out on the first play of the second period and tackle John Cook kicked the extra point for a 7-6 lead which remained thus until the half.

Novato kept rolling after the intermission and sent track star and fullback Bill Henderson racing on a sensational 60-yard TD run, followed by Cook's second placement, for a 14-6 third quarter advantage which looked pretty safe at the time.

Then strange things began to happen, just when Novato appeared to be ready to bust the game wide open. The Hornets smothered Redwood's offense and took over again, goalbent for election. With the ball on Redwood's 28, the Hornets sent McCormick around end on a brilliant hurdling, squirming run to inside the 15, only to have the crucial gainer nullified by a penalty.

This was the key point in the game for the foul put Novato back to the 47 and on the next play Hornet quarterback Bob Sparrow elected to pass and, rushed badly, threw right into the arms of Ruta on Redwood's 38 and little Dave rammed it right back down the Hornets' throats with the 62-yard TD run.

Now, the Giants were back in the game which seemed all but lost just an instant before.

With only the two point deficit, the inspired Giants got tough after the ensuing kickoff and forced Novato to punt. Unfortunately for the North Marin lads, they booted it to Alessio who, running like a cat on a hot tin roof, jitter-bugged 45 yards to Novato's 15. From there slick ball handling Giant QB Roger Siemens directed a five-play drive climaxed by Keith Norton's four yard plunge for the winning touchdown. Alessio's kick was good for the 19th point.

But, a great defensive effort was still to come form Redwood, for midway through the fourth period Novato's John Cook recovered a fumble on the Hornet 65 to set up a dramatic race against the clock. Sparrow handed off to McCormick and Henderson in a series of five plays that moved it to Redwood's 37. Here, on a fourth down situation, Sparrow completed an 11-yard pass to outstanding Ron Grayson and it was first down for Novato just 26 yards away from victory!

But here, with little more than a minute to go, the Giant defense showed its colors. Guard Bill Weckel temporarily wrecked the Novato hopes by crashing the pass-minded Sparrow for an eight yard loss and on the next play Alessio completely killed Novato with his interception.

When asked to name standouts, Redwood Coach, Bob Troppman sounded like a sergeant calling roll—"Everybody was great," the elated mentor cheered. He heaped praise on Alessio, Ruta, Norton and Siemens in the backfield and called out a gang of others, particularly the great linebacker Mike Hoffman ("He's the hub of our defense"). Others mentioned were Mike Walsh, John Clum, Ralph Woods, John Whitney, Herb Schriebner and Rick Basco.

Novato showed it will be tough, particularly when you consider the Hornets played without two of their very best players — end Lu Haas and wingback Fred McElroy, both sidelined with injuries.

The running of Henderson, McCormick and John Picchi was impressive (see statistics) and Cook and Grayson were standouts in a good, tough line.

Next week Novato goes against top-notch Drake and Redwood invades San Rafael Bulldog territory. Defending champion Redwood will be out to protect its distinguished record of never losing a Marin League game.

Speedy Tam Injuns Zip Past San Rafael For 20-6 Victory

By PAUL MILLER

At Kentfield stadium last night the San Rafael High Bulldogs—with their sparker Billy Roberts out of most of the action because of injury—were beset upon by penalties, pass interceptions, recovered fumbles and fast running Indians from Tamalpais High.

The result was a 20-6 rout by the Indians in the schools' 40th rivalry game, and first Marin League tilt of the season.

San Rafael's alert defensive end, Rich Robertson, spared the Bulldogs the humiliation of a shutout when, in the last four and a half seconds of the game, he recovered a fumble by Tam quarterback "Tex" Hamilton on the Indians' one-inch line.

Jack Sovereign, just before Robertson's recovery, had led his club from its own 24 to the Indian 5, but then lost the leather in failing by one yard to make a first down. Sovereign avenged himself and his disheartened team by scoring one inch over center in the last second of the game.

TAM FIREWORKS

About 4,500 fans watched play get off to a lethargic start until red and blue fireworks flared about the middle of the first quarter. It was the Indians' second down on their own 47 when they blasted Pat (Mercury) Morgan around right end at the Bulldogs. Before the K-9s could get all four legs around, "Merc" had 53 more yards and 6 more points to his already loaded statistical records.

Four plays after the TD, Bulldog quarterback Sovereign's 11-yard pass intended for end Randy Petrini was intercepted by Tam's defensive quarterback Tom Yarborough on the Bulldog 40. Big Tom went right on into the end zone with his prize. The PAT was tallied after a center plunge by Rich Hamilton and it was 13-0 in the first quarter.

Tam's last TD push came in the first minute of the final period with a 28-yard pass play from Tex Hamilton to end Ed Collins. The conversion was good from the toe of Norm Kreuter.

Except for San Rafael's final period rally which was sparked by halfback Billy Roberts who played only a few minutes of the second quarter, the only other time the Bulldogs were set up for a score was during the second period after guard Sandy English recovered a Tam fumble on the Indian 15. But in two plays and one yard the Bulldogs blew their chance with a fumble of their own which was recovered by Kreuter on the Tamalpais 14.

DORNBACH STARS

The most spectacular series of plays was initiated by Indian tackle Pete Dornbach, a 190-pound senior who was undoubtedly lineman of the night, if not of the week.

At the end of the third period Tam was forced on a fourth down to kick from its own 10. The punt was received by San Rafael halfback Gary Ledson who fumbled the ball on Tam's 39-yard line, where it was recovered by Dornbach. From the 39, quarterback Hamilton and Morgan ran their infamous (to opponents) just-before-you're-tackled lateral play around right end for a 32-yard onslaught. Hamilton hit Collins on the next play for the TD pass.

Tackle Dornbach was not through for the evening, however, for he managed to intercept a pass by San Rafael's Sovereign on the San Rafael 46.

Tam's Head Coach James Hanretty, gratified with his victory but still in some pain from a rib injury he suffered in a practice mishap this week, said San Rafael had a "hard working and effective defensive team and gave our running game considerable trouble."

Head Coach for the Bulldogs, Dick Read, blamed much of his club's defeat on "a few key mistakes at crucial periods," and the loss of important yardage from penalties (San Rafael had six penalties for 30 lost yards).

"Hanretty's boys played well," said Read.

TONIGHT IT'S DRAKE VS. MARIN CATHOLIC

Drake High's Pirates, equipped with a psychological advantage to supplement their excellent and experienced personnel, tackle the Marin Catholic Wildcats tonight at Kentfield in each team's first Marin Athletic League Football encounter of the season.

Upset last week by Analy, 19-15 after three straight wins, the Pirates will be fired up to a psychological peak against a slim Marin Catholic team that trounced its most recent opponent. Drake is the favorite in this one, with or without the "mental" edge.

The game will serve as Marin Catholic's "homecoming" and Wildcat mentor Harry Moore probably wishes he could enlist the services of some of the alumni in the stands. Moore has only 10 reserves on the bench and his two first string halfbacks, Gary Ragghianti and George Nunes, are both injured and unable to play.

Drake, on the other hand, is near its physical peak with only end Bill Collins on the sick list. He will be able to see some limited action, Coach Bob Franceschini said.

Marin Catholic has one win, one loss and a tie while Drake has a 3-1 record. An interesting angle: Much of Drake's yardage has been on end runs; all touchdowns against Marin have been around end.

Fullback Scott Moriarty is Drake's leading ball carrier with an average of approximately 130 yards per game and an 8.5 average per carry.

Stoneham Agrees To Study Possibility Of Television

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco Giant President Horace Stoneham told the San Francisco Board of Supervisors yesterday he is willing to discuss the televising of his club's road games when he returns from Japan on Nov. 18.

He admitted the problem needed re-examination, but at the same time noted that major league clubs with the highest home attendance were those that permitted little or no television of games.

Stoneham, in a statement to Supervisor Henry R. Rolph, reminded the supervisor that the city also has a financial interest in the attendance of the Giants' games.

Stoneham had signed a long-term contract with Skiatron, Inc., a pay TV operation, but the company is now out of business.

Stoneham's statements came after San Francisco Supervisor Joseph M. Casey asked the board to adopt a resolution calling for the Giants to lift the ban on television on road games. He said televised road games would heighten interest and might lead to increased attendance at home.

His resolution was referred to the board's committee on education, parks and recreation.

Rod-Gun Meeting Set

Hamilton Rod and Gun Club will hold a general meeting Monday, 8 p.m., at the Hamilton Air Force Base small arms range, Secretary Arley L. Atwell announced yesterday.

Membership is open to the public as well as military personnel, Atwell said, and prospective members are invited to attend the meeting.

BEARS FEARED

49ers Underdogs In Chicago Game

CHICAGO (UPI) — San Francisco 49ers will be slight underdogs when they battle the Chicago Bears tomorrow at Wrigley Field in a battle between two of the co-leaders of the Western Division.

The Bears have not looked too sharp in winning two of their first three games. They were slaughtered by Baltimore and almost lost last week when Los Angeles put on a last-half blitz.

But the Bears still have won nine out of their last 10 games. They took their last seven contests in 1959.

Coach Red Hickey said today he especially feared Rick Casares, the big Bear fullback who had a good day against the Rams last Sunday. He also praised Bear receivers Angelo Coia and Johnny Morris and the traditionally rugged Bear defense.

The 49ers may come up with a few surprises for this one. They have worked out all week in secret at Detroit's Briggs Stadium in preparation for the Bears.

In another surprise move, Hickey has named young John Brodie to start at quarterback. The 49ers have won two in a row, but scored only 27 points.

"That's why I'm starting Brodie," Hickey explained. "We haven't moved the ball well. We did move it well with him in there. Perhaps he can keep it going against the Bears."

In another unusual aspect of the game, the 49ers have drilled all week against possible chattering tactics.

The Rams charged the Bear defense with chanting numbers last week in a successful effort to confuse the offense.

The 49ers have drilled all week with the defense shouting numbers and the offensive linemen learning to distinguish the voices of quarterbacks John Brodie and Y. A. Tittle from the rest.

The talking tactic is strictly illegal, but the 49ers claim that the referees have been known to become a trifle forgetful in the bailiwick of Papa George Halas — one of the founders of the National Football League.

PLANNED FOR TIBURON

Here is a drawing by Architect Mario Gaidano of San Francisco for an ensemble of Tiburon Main Street enterprises planned by Frederick G. Zelinsky, Belvedere, and Ernest Van Asperen, San Francisco. An adjustment was granted last January by the Marin County Planning Commission for construction of a combination of shops fronting on Main Street with a nautical motif. There will be a restaurant on the second floor. There will be dock facilities for boats.

LONG HUNT ENDS, FLAT FOOTED FLIES FOUND

Dr. Edward L. Kessel of the University of San Francisco, resident of 1871 Indian Valley Road, has been searching for a species of the melanderomyia kahli for years.

Sister Mary Lucretia, a Cincinnati school teacher who studied under Dr. Kessel, discovered the flat foot flies and quickly mailed them to Dr. Kessel who is also curator of insects for the California Academy of Sciences.

The fly was given its name because its bent hind legs give it the appearance of being flat footed, Kessel explained

Dr. Kessel said he will exhibit Sister Lucretia's two flies along with six flies caught by an Iowa doctor in 1952. It has been just discovered that the Iowan's unusual flies were also flat-foots.

Abatement Unit Hikes Share In Medical Cost

Marin County Mosquito Abatement District directors have decided to help pay more of the California Physicians Service cost for district employees.

The district increased its contribution to C.P.S. from $2.50 to $5 per employee per month.

Manager G. Paul Jones said this is in line with county practice in other departments.

The district also changed the formula for contributing to employees' individual group life insurance policies. Under the former plan the district shared equally with each employee in total premium cost. Now, the district will contribute a flat sum of $2 per month for each employee. This plan also follows the county plan now being put in effect, Jones said.

In other actions, the district board:

Approved the purchase of flotation tires for one jeep. This will allow a jeep to operate in soft marsh ground.

Approved a new emblem for district equipment. This will eliminate the need for continuously painting signs on vehicles and equipment.

Wholesale Business Showing Growth Throughout County

Marin County wholesale business is increasing, according to calculations of the Marin Industrial Development Foundation.

Study of the 1954 and 1958 U.S. Census of Wholesale Trade shows a one-quarter increase to a total of 99 firms, according to Carroll Snyker, foundation executive vice president.

Their payroll went up 114 per cent to $3,679,000, the number of employees rose 67.5 per cent to 680, and there was a sales rise of 86.3 per cent to $54,450.

Snyker said factors in the growth included population increase and need to serve this area from points close to supply and retailers.

Safe Driving Courses Offered

Redwood, San Rafael and Sir Francis Drake High Schools are offering teen-age safe driving courses this year. Classroom and on-the-road training are provided.

Cars are being loaned by DeLong Chevrolet and Ames Ford Sales. Instructors will be Donald Boucher and Maurice Weinger at Redwood, Patrick Costello at San Rafael and Morris Shepherd at Sir Francis Drake.

KTIM Plans To Tell Trend In Election

A sampling of voting trends for the November election will be presented on radio station KTIM starting Monday on the "KTIM Opinion Poll," manager Hugh Turner announced today.

The poll will be taken by use of small unsigned ballots showing preference between Kennedy and Nixon, Dupuis and Miller, Geller and McCarthy, Bagley and Matzen, and on fluoridation, county farm bonds and state Proposition 15.

The ballots will be passed out and collected by staff members, mainly at organization meetings where a large number of people are gathered. In addition, random telephone samplings will be added.

To eliminate possibility of stuffing, no unattended ballot boxes will be used.

Poll results will be heard weekdays at 7:55 a.m., 11:55 a.m., and 4:55 p.m. and on Sundays at 7:55 a.m., 12:05 p.m., and 5:05 p.m.

Bumper Sticker Ads Urge Pension Support

They are being distributed by the Fairfax City Employees Assn., backing the proposition on Nov. 8 ballots in Fairfax which would create a pension plan for some 15 city employees.

It would raise the average Fairfax home owners tax bill around $5 a year, being financed partially from property taxes and mostly by the employees themselves.

The plan, which is based on the state employees pension plan, would provide higher retirement pay for firemen and policemen. Only city employee receiving more than half their salary from the city would be eligible.

PLANNED FOR TIBURON

Here is a drawing by Architect Mario Gaidano of San Francisco for an ensemble of Tiburon Main Street enterprises planned by Frederick G. Zelinsky, Belvedere, and Ernest Van Asperen, San Francisco. An adjustment was granted last January by the Marin County Planning Commission for construction of a combination of shops fronting on Main Street with a nautical motif. There will be a restaurant on the second floor. There will be dock facilities for boats.

LONG HUNT ENDS, FLAT FOOTED FLIES FOUND

Dr. Edward L. Kessel of the University of San Francisco, resident of 1871 Indian Valley Road, has been searching for a species of the melanderomyia kahli for years.

Sister Mary Lucretia, a Cincinnati school teacher who studied under Dr. Kessel, discovered the flat foot flies and quickly mailed them to Dr. Kessel who is also curator of insects for the California Academy of Sciences.

The fly was given its name because its bent hind legs give it the appearance of being flat footed, Kessel explained

Dr. Kessel said he will exhibit Sister Lucretia's two flies along with six flies caught by an Iowa doctor in 1952. It has been just discovered that the Iowan's unusual flies were also flat-foots.

Abatement Unit Hikes Share In Medical Cost

Marin County Mosquito Abatement District directors have decided to help pay more of the California Physicians Service cost for district employees.

The district increased its contribution to C.P.S. from $2.50 to $5 per employee per month.

Manager G. Paul Jones said this is in line with county practice in other departments.

The district also changed the formula for contributing to employees' individual group life insurance policies. Under the former plan the district shared equally with each employee in total premium cost. Now, the district will contribute a flat sum of $2 per month for each employee. This plan also follows the county plan now being put in effect, Jones said.

In other actions, the district board:

Approved the purchase of flotation tires for one jeep. This will allow a jeep to operate in soft marsh ground.

Approved a new emblem for district equipment. This will eliminate the need for continuously painting signs on vehicles and equipment.

Wholesale Business Showing Growth Throughout County

Marin County wholesale business is increasing, according to calculations of the Marin Industrial Development Foundation.

Study of the 1954 and 1958 U.S. Census of Wholesale Trade shows a one-quarter increase to a total of 99 firms, according to Carroll Snyker, foundation executive vice president.

Their payroll went up 114 per cent to $3,679,000, the number of employees rose 67.5 per cent to 680, and there was a sales rise of 86.3 per cent to $54,450.

Snyker said factors in the growth included population increase and need to serve this area from points close to supply and retailers.

Safe Driving Courses Offered

Redwood, San Rafael and Sir Francis Drake High Schools are offering teen-age safe driving courses this year. Classroom and on-the-road training are provided.

Cars are being loaned by DeLong Chevrolet and Ames Ford Sales. Instructors will be Donald Boucher and Maurice Weinger at Redwood, Patrick Costello at San Rafael and Morris Shepherd at Sir Francis Drake.

KTIM Plans To Tell Trend in Election

A sampling of voting trends for the November election will be presented on radio station KTIM starting Monday on the "KTIM Opinion Poll," manager Hugh Turner announced today.

The poll will be taken by use of small unsigned ballots showing preference between Kennedy and Nixon, Dupuis and Miller, Geller and McCarthy, Bagley and Matzen, and on fluoridation, county farm bonds and state Proposition 15.

The ballots will be passed out and collected by staff members, mainly at organization meetings where a large number of people are gathered. In addition, random telephone samplings will be added.

To eliminate possibility of stuffing, no unattended ballot boxes will be used.

Poll results will be heard weekdays at 7:55 a.m., 11:55 a.m., and 4:55 p.m. and on Sundays at 7:55 a.m., 12:05 p.m., and 5:05 p.m.

Three speakers have been asked to discuss the topic. Steif for seven years has been correspondent for Variety and has written several magazine articles. In 1952 he studied at Harvard under a Nieman Fellowship which is granted to practicing young journalists with a promising career.

Other speakers will be Charles W. Gilmore, manager of the Sequoia Theater in Mill Valley and Donald F. Donohue, manager of the Tiburon and Novato theaters. They will discuss how they determine that a film should be advertised "for adults only?"

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Edwin Cahills Host Large Gathering

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

The Edwin Cahills of Greenbrae hosted a large cocktail party last night. Among their guests were her two sisters, Mrs. John Sweet and Mrs. David Williams, and their husbands, also Dr. and Mrs. John Schulte, Messrs. and Mesdames Desmond Mactavish, William Shaw, Sanford Pagnucci, Augustus Belden, George Hill, Richard Dinkelspiel, James Jankins, Jack Dollar, Walter Joseph, Sam Donahue, Robert Lancaster, Gordon Brown and Edward Solinsky. In the contingent from the Peninsula were Dr. and Mrs. John Vogel, Messrs. and Mesdames Kenneth Wentz, William Jackson, Max Moore and James Moore.

GUESTS OF Miss Geneve Shaffer at the wine tasting party given last night at the Women's Athletic Club in San Francisco were Mr. and Mrs. Edson Adams and the Lewis Dentons.

THAT POPULAR VISITOR from Montreal, Mrs. Gerard Bourgoing, who is the house-guest of her brother-in-law and sister, the John Lesoines, will have honor place at the dinner party the Harrison Leppos are giving Thursday night at their Mill Valley home. On Wednesday Mrs. Leppo is entertaining a group of friends at the mid-autumn luncheon and fashion show at the Meadow Club.

THE DESPEDIDO given by Rear Adm. and Mrs. John F. Flynn on Wednesday night at their Corte Madera home honored Jack Arthur Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack I. Miller of Corte Madera. The young man left yesterday for flight training as a naval aviation cadet at the naval air station at Pensacola, Fla. He is well known in the county and starred in football on the College of Marin team.

Twenty-four guests were present at the cocktail and buffet supper party to wish Jack farewell and good luck. A large cake, with a replica of a Navy anchor on one side and a jet on the other, bore the message, "Happy Landings, Jack." Centering the table, which was covered by an ecru Chinese embroidered cloth, was a horn of plenty filled with fresh fruits. Red candles and berries completed the decor.

The Flynns, who have resided in Corte Madera for more than a year, have lived in distant places, among them, Athens, Greece; Tsingtao, China; Pearl Harbor, Hawaii and Guantanamo, Cuba, which is now a trouble spot. After Adm. Flynn returned from sea duty and retired, he and his wife came here from Fort Omaha, Neb.

THREE COUPLES are weekending at Carmel staying at Normandie Inn. In the group are the Rudy Langs, LeRoy Pages and Margaret and Buck Harless. They left yesterday and will return on Monday. The Langs' daughter, Sue, a senior at Dominican High school, is busy with special events. On Wednesday she and her classmates had a picnic at Sonoma. Today is Play Day on the campus and on Sunday morning, Oct. 23 the high school girls with their fathers will leave in a motorcade for the ranch in Sleepy Hollow which has been purchased by the convent. During the afternoon there will be a "big game hunt" and many games will be played and a picnic supper will be served. Some of the boarders at the convent, whose fathers are too far away to attend, are being "adopted" for the day by fathers of other girls.

A GOURMET'S DELIGHT was the Gastronomical Fair Wednesday night in the Garden Court of the Sheraton Palace. The most elegant restaurants provided their specialties and the chefs vied to provide distinctive fare. For instance, Sausalito's Ondine's served crab legs in white wine with two cream sauces. And to entertain the guest several opera stars, including Margot Blum, Mrs. Louis Ets-Hokins' niece, sang, and a fashion show of Moreau creations was put on. This was followed by dancing. All this was to raise funds for Spring Opera of San Francisco, a non-profit venture, designed to bring, in cooperation with the San Francisco Opera, a popular priced series in the spring.

Among those glimpsed in the throng were Leon and Nana Smith chatting with the Dewey Donnells, the David Plants with the Robert Pomeroys also the John Bellamys. Marion Bellamy was one of the models in the show. She is a Moreau fan and her gown for the opening night of the Opera Season was by Moreau. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Grace were with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Smyth and the Jonathan Rices.

LURE OF THE ISLANDS is still strong. Mr. and Mrs. Vern Lindburg of Corte Madera sailed to Honolulu last week on the Lurline for a month's vacation. Miss Alice Johnson has returned to her San Rafael apartment after two weeks in Hawaii. She headquartered at the Hawaiian Village on Waikiki. Enjoying several weeks vacation in Honolulu are Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Q. Codoni of San Rafael.

A CONTINGENT of Marin County friends attended the beautiful wedding of Nancy Jane Onorato and Gerald Francis Kelleher on Saturday at Old St. Mary's in San Francisco. The bride, wearing a candlelight peau de soie gown with a court train, was preceded down the aisle by seven attendants. She was given in marriage by her father Salazar Onorato. The bridegroom's uncle, the Rev. Daniel Kelleher flew from Phoenix, Ariz. to officiate at the ceremony. The 11 a.m. nuptial mass was followed by a reception in the Gold Room of the Fairmont Hotel. The new benedict, a graduate of the University of San Francisco, is in the Navy and he and his bride will live in Long Beach. The bride is a graduate of Convent of the Sacred Heart and the San Francisco College for Women.

The bride and her family are well known here. For many years they have left their home in San Francisco to spend the summers in Marin. For several years the Onoratos rented the Gus Niderholzers' house in Kentfield while the owners were traveling. More recently they occupied the house of the Arthur Dettners in Ross.

MARY OLIVA, JOE MARIANI ENGAGED

Dr. and Mrs. George V. Oliva of Sleepy Hollow have announced the engagement of their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Joseph Charles Mariani.

Mary, a graduate of Marin Catholic High School and St. Joseph's College of Nursing in San Francisco, is a registered nurse and on the staff of Marin General Hospital.

The future benedict, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Mariani of San Rafael, also is a Marin Catholic High School graduate. Joe is enrolled at University of San Francisco, studying for a bachelor's degree. He expects to get a California general secondary credentiyal at gradate school.

THAT POPULAR VISITOR from Montreal, Mrs. Gerard Bourgoing, who is the houseguest of her brother-in-law and sister, the John Lesoines, will have honor place at the dinner party the Harrison Leppos are giving Thursday night at their Mill Valley home. On Wednesday Mrs. Leppo is entertaining a group of friends at the mid-autumn luncheon and fashion show at the Meadow Club.

THE DESPEDIDO given by Rear Adm. and Mrs. John F. Flynn on Wednesday night at their Corte Madera home honored Jack Arthur Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack I. Miller of Corte Madera. The young man left yesterday for flight training as a naval aviation cadet at the naval air station at Pensacola, Fla. He is well known in the county and starred in football on the College of Marin team.

Twenty-four guests were present at the cocktail and buffet supper party to wish Jack farewell and good luck. A large cake, with a replica of a Navy anchor on one side and a jet on the other, bore the message "Happy Landings, Jack." Centering the table, which was covered by an ecru Chinese embroidered cloth, was a horn of plenty filled with fresh fruits. Red candles and berries completed the decor.

The Flynns, who have resided in Corte Madera for more than a year, have lived in distant places, among them, Athens, Greece; Tsingtao, China; Pearl Harbor, Hawaii and Guantanamo, Cuba, which is now a trouble spot. After Adm. Flynn returned from sea duty and retired, he and his wife came here from Fort Omaha, Neb.

THREE COUPLES are weekending at Carmel staying at Normandie Inn. In the group are the Rudy Langs, LeRoy Pages and Margaret and Buck Harless. They left yesterday and will return on Monday. The Langs' daughter, Sue, a senior at Dominican High school, is busy with special events. On Wednesday she and her classmates had a picnic at Sonoma. Today is Play Day on the campus and on Sunday morning, Oct. 23 the high school girls with their fathers will leave in a motorcade for the ranch in Sleepy Hollow which has been purchased by the convent. During the afternoon there will be a "big game hunt" and many games will be played and a picnic supper will be served. Some of the boarders at the convent, whose fathers are too far away to attend, are being "adopted" for the day by fathers of other girls.

A GOURMET'S DELIGHT was the Gastronomical Fair Wednesday night in the Garden Court of the Sheraton Palace. The most elegant restaurants provided their specialties and the chefs vied to provide distinctive fare. For instance, Sausalito's Ondine's served crab legs in white wine with two cream sauces. And to entertain the guest several opera stars, including Margot Blum, Mrs. Louis Ets-Hokins' niece, sang, and a fashion show of Moreau creations was put on. This was followed by dancing. All this was to raise funds for Spring Opera of San Francisco, a non-profit venture, designed to bring, in cooperation with the San Francisco Opera, a popular priced series in the spring.

Among those glimpsed in the throng were Leon and Nana Smith chatting with the Dewey Donnells, the David Plants with the Robert Pomeroys also the John Bellamys. Marion Bellamy was one of the models in the show. She is a Moreau fan and her gown for the opening night of the Opera Season was by Moreau. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Grace were with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Smyth and the Jonathan Rices.

LURE OF THE ISLANDS is still strong. Mr. and Mrs. Vern Lindburg of Corte Madera sailed to Honolulu last week on the Lurline for a month's vacation. Miss Alice Johnson has returned to her San Rafael apartment after two weeks in Hawaii. She headquartered at the Hawaiian Village on Waikiki. Enjoying several weeks vacation in Honolulu are Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Q. Codoni of San Rafael.

A CONTINGENT of Marin County friends attended the beautiful wedding of Nancy Jane Onorato and Gerald Francis Kelleher on Saturday at Old St. Mary's in San Francisco. The bride, wearing a candlelight peau de soie gown with a court train, was preceded down the aisle by seven attendants. She was given in marriage by her father Salazar Onorato. The bridegroom's uncle, the Rev. Daniel Kelleher flew from Phoenix, Ariz. to officiate at the ceremony. The 11 a.m. nuptial mass was followed by a reception in the Gold Room of the Fairmont Hotel. The new benedict, a graduate of the University of San Francisco, is in the Navy and he and his bride will live in Long Beach. The bride is a graduate of Convent of the Sacred Heart and the San Francisco College for Women.

The bride and her family are well known here. For many years they have left their home in San Francisco to spend the summers in Marin. For several years the Onoratos rented the Gus Niderholzers' house in Kentfield while the owners were traveling. More recently they occupied the house of the Arthur Dettners in Ross.

MARY OLIVA, JOE MARIANI ENGAGED

Dr. and Mrs. George V. Oliva of Sleepy Hollow have announced the engagement of their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Joseph Charles Mariani.

Mary, a graduate of Marin Catholic High School and St. Joseph's College of Nursing in San Francisco, is a registered nurse and on the staff of Marin General Hospital.

Catholics Detail Local Construction

By PAUL MILLER

The Catholic Church, through the Archdiocese of San Francisco, is engaged in a building program for Marin County which includes, among other projects, a home for the elderly in Terra Linda, a convent in Novato and an elementary school in Larkspur.

The cost of the program, a portion of which has been completed, totals about $1,570,000.

The Novato convent was completed this summer; the Larkspur parochial school is now under construction, and the home for the elderly is off the drawing board of San Francisco architect Vincent Buckley. A building permit for the home has not yet been requested from the City of San Rafael, however.

The new Novato convent provides living quarters for three teaching nuns who formerly commuted from Santa Rosa to instruct at Our Lady of Loretto School. The convent, located next to the school, cost $100,000. It has its own chapel, and can house up to nine nuns.

The structure has individual rooms, kitchen and dining room, a guest room and storage and laundry facilities.

Clarence Feliciano was the architect and Wright and Orestky (both firms of Santa Rosa) was the contractor for the two-story structure.

Also, living quarters for an assistant pastor of Our Lady of Loretto Church have been added to the priest house next to the church on Grant Avenue. The room was rebuilt from an enclosed porch.

The parochial elementary school now being built near St. Patrick's Church in Larkspur, including a multipurpose hall, will cost about $300,000.

Work on both the hall and the school building has been under way since midsummer. The hall is scheduled to be finished by January, and the school by late summer.

"Classes will probably not be started by next September, however," said Rev. James Healy, St. Patrick's pastor. "At this point we are not sure it can be staffed with teachers that soon."

The school building, designed by John Minton of San Francisco, will have eight classrooms and accommodate 400 pupils.

The multipurpose hall will include several classrooms and a cafeteria. The hall will seat an estimated 400 persons, and "be used by youth and adult groups of the church in the evenings and by the school during the day," said Father Healy.

The one million-dollar rest home for the aged—to be called Nazareth House—is to be financed by the Sisters of the Nazareth, a British order of nuns within the Catholic Church. It is to be built on about 80 acres next to Terra Linda High School.

This month sisters of the order will establish an office in San Francisco with Mother M. Lewis Bertrand in charge, to work out further business details regarding the project before the first phase of construction gets under way, reported Howard Rochford of the Catholic Social Service in San Francisco.

The home will be built to accommodate 90 residents and provide them with a chapel, administrative building and living and recreation facilities.

A building project not directly under the jurisdiction of the archdiocese is under way by the Dominican Convent of San Rafael, which has had its architects, Schubart and Freidman of San Francisco, begin plans for a new elementary and high school to be located on 500 acres at the end of Butterfield Road in Sleepy Hollow.

Sister Mary Maurice, principal of Dominican Upper School in San Rafael, said she would not estimate the cost of the proposed project, but that it may be built to accommodate up to 240 students, and is hoped to be completed "in the next three to five years, depending on finances."

Not only would academic buildings have to be built on the site, already approved by the Marin County Planning Commission, but resident halls as well will be necessary, said Sister Mary Maurice.

Other construction included in the archdiocese program is an addition at St. Rita's Convent in Fairfax and a multipurpose hall at St. Anselm's School in San Anselmo.

An addition of four living quarters plus a storage room was completed last week at the Fairfax convent at a cost of $10,000. It was the fulfillment of the building contract for a convent school, rectory and an eight-room convent.

Construction on the entire job at St. Rita's began four years ago and was completed, except for the convent, last year. Architect was Paul A. Ryan of San Francisco.

It has been conjectured unofficially that plans for a multipurpose hall for St. Rita's will soon be on the drawing boards.

At St. Anselm's School, a $160,000 gymnasium-multipurpose hall with a seating capacity of about 500 is under construction and is hoped to be completed "in time for Christmas season activities," said Sister Arthur Mary, principal.

Construction has been under way since June on the building, which will have a stage, two rehearsal rooms and a kitchen with cafeteria facilities. A shower and locker room will be built adjacent to the gym floor.

The Archdiocese in San Francisco stated that the Catholic Church was engaged in a building program of "staggering proportions" in 13 counties surrounding San Francisco.

THE PARENTS' CORNER

By RICHMOND BARBOUR, Ph. D
Guidance Counsellor

Nursery School Might Help Child To Overcome Being Too Bossy

R.N. "Our girl is almost 4. She has very few friends. She is too bossy. She won't play unless she gives the orders. The children in the neighborhood frequently exclude her from their group. When they do that she runs home crying. But next time she's as bossy as ever. Can anyone teach her how to get along with others?"

Reply. Is there a good nursery school she might attend? Trained nursery school teachers are experts in showing children how to get along with others. Send her if you can. At home, keep explaining what the other children expect. Try to watch her playing, unobtrusively. Help her to see mistakes she makes. Give her sincere praise when she earns it. Spend as much time with her as you can and have your husband do the same. Let her know you love her dearly. She needs your support. Many small children have her problem and nearly all of them overcome it.

D.L. "Our son is 12. My wife scolds me because I call him names. I often call him 'Dummy,' 'Lamebrain' or 'Stupid.' When he was little he didn't seem to mind. Now he does. If I stop calling him names he may lose his respect for me. Don't most fathers call their boys names?"

Reply. A great many fathers do, but it isn't wise. Your boy will have greater respect for you if you stop the name-calling. He needs your love and support, not your sarcasm.

N.T. "Is there a good book to guide parents of children in the grades? My girl is 6, my boy 10. I need advice."

Reply. Get "Guiding Your Child from 5 to 12," published by Parent's Magazine. It contains reprints of many articles. You'll find it helpful.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Three Drivers Draw Sentences

Three drunken drivers were sentenced yesterday by Judge Harold J. Haley of Municipal Court for their first convictions.

Charles James McDonald, 64, Richmond bartender, and John Alexander MacKenzie, 40, of 28 Tulane Drive, Larkspur, each drew identical sentences. They were placed on six months probation, paid $184 fine each, and for the next 90 days, may drive only for work and emergencies.

McDonald was caught on Highway 101 near Black Point cutoff on Thursday. MacKenzie was arrested at Magnolia Avenue and Bon Air Road in Larkspur on Oct. 4.

Anthony Bert Twardowski, 59, of Willits lost his license for 90 days and must pay $158 fine. He was caught on Highway 101 at Miller Creek Road on Sept. 6.

Bay Area Jobs

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Exports of San Francisco Bay Area industries to other parts of California account for 160,000 jobs in six bay area counties, a state economic study showed today.

The study, by Dr. Stanley Crook, acting economic development commissioner, stated that non-agricultural employment in the six counties had risen 19 per cent since 1950, the same rate as the population rise.

Sea Search Ends For Missing Flier

HONOLULU (UPI) — The Wake Island air-sea search for a missing, flier Lt. Duane Stirling, 28, of Fargo, N.D., has been called off, the Navy announced.

The North Dakota Air National Guard pilot was attempting to fly nonstop from Oakland to Manila—7,698 miles—when his single-engine plane plunged into the Pacific near Wake Island Wednesday night.

Catholics Detail Local Construction

By PAUL MILLER

The Catholic Church, through the Archdiocese of San Francisco, is engaged in a building program for Marin County which includes, among other projects, a home for the elderly in Terra Linda, a convent in Novato and an elementary school in Larkspur.

The cost of the program, a portion of which has been completed, totals about $1,570,000.

The Novato convent was completed this summer; the Larkspur parochial school is now under construction, and the home for the elderly is off the drawing board of San Francisco architect Vincent Buckley. A building permit for the home has not yet been requested from the City of San Rafael, however.

The new Novato convent provides living quarters for three teaching nuns who formerly commuted from Santa Rosa to instruct at Our Lady of Loretto School. The convent, located next to the school, cost $100,000. It has its own chapel, and can house up to nine nuns.

The structure has individual rooms, kitchen and dining room, a guest room and storage and laundry facilities.

Clarence Feliciano was the architect and Wright and Orestky (both firms of Santa Rosa) was the contractor for the two-story structure.

Also, living quarters for an assistant pastor of Our Lady of Loretto Church have been added to the priest house next to the church on Grant Avenue. The room was rebuilt from an enclosed porch.

The parochial elementary school now being built near St. Patrick's Church in Larkspur, including a multipurpose hall, will cost about $300,000.

Work on both the hall and the school building has been under way since midsummer. The hall is scheduled to be finished by January, and the school by late summer.

"Classes will probably not be started by next September, however," said Rev. James Healy, St. Patrick's pastor. "At this point we are not sure it can be staffed with teachers that soon."

The school building, designed by John Minton of San Francisco, will have eight classrooms and accommodate 400 pupils.

The multipurpose hall will include several classrooms and a cafeteria. The hall will seat an estimated 400 persons, and "be used by youth and adult groups of the church in the evenings and by the school during the day," said Father Healy.

The one million-dollar rest home for the aged—to be called Nazareth House—is to be financed by the Sisters of the Nazareth, a British order of nuns within the Catholic Church. It is to be built on about 80 acres next to Terra Linda High School.

This month sisters of the order will establish an office in San Francisco with Mother M. Lewis Bertrand in charge, to work out further business details regarding the project before the first phase of construction gets under way, reported Howard Rochford of the Catholic Social Service in San Francisco.

The home will be built to accommodate 90 residents and provide them with a chapel, administrative building and living and recreation facilities.

A building project not directly under the jurisdiction of the archdiocese is under way by the Dominican Convent of San Rafael, which has had its architects, Schubart and Freidman of San Francisco, begin plans for a new elementary and high school to be located on 500 acres at the end of Butterfield Road in Sleepy Hollow.

Sister Mary Maurice, principal of Dominican Upper School in San Rafael, said she would not estimate the cost of the proposed project, but that it may be built to accommodate up to 240 students, and is hoped to be completed "in the next three to five years, depending on finances."

Not only would academic buildings have to be built on the site, already approved by the Marin County Planning Commission, but resident halls as well will be necessary, said Sister Mary Maurice.

Other construction included in the archdiocese program is an addition at St. Rita's Convent in Fairfax and a multipurpose hall at St. Anselm's School in San Anselmo.

An addition of four living quarters plus a storage room was completed last week at the Fairfax convent at a cost of $10,000. It was the fulfillment of the building contract for a convent school, rectory and an eight-room convent.

Construction on the entire job at St. Rita's began four years ago and was completed, except for the convent, last year. Architect was Paul A. Ryan of San Francisco.

It has been conjectured unofficially that plans for a multipurpose hall for St. Rita's will soon be on the drawing boards.

At St. Anselm's School, a $160,000 gymnasium-multipurpose hall with a seating capacity of about 500 is under construction and is hoped to be completed "in time for Christmas season activities," said Sister Arthur Mary, principal.

Construction has been under way since June on the building, which will have a stage, two rehearsal rooms and a kitchen with cafeteria facilities. A shower and locker room will be built adjacent to the gym floor.

The Archdiocese in San Francisco stated that the Catholic Church was engaged in a building program of "staggering proportions" in 13 counties surrounding San Francisco.

THE PARENTS' CORNER

By RICHMOND BARBOUR, Ph. D

Nursery School Might Help Child To Overcome Being Too Bossy

R.N. "Our girl is almost 4. She has very few friends. She is too bossy. She won't play unless she gives the orders. The children in the neighborhood frequently exclude her from their group. When they do that she runs home crying. But next time she's as bossy as ever. Can anyone teach her how to get along with others?"

Reply. Is there a good nursery school she might attend? Trained nursery school teachers are experts in showing children how to get along with others. Send her if you can. At home, keep explaining what the other children expect. Try to watch her playing, unobtrusively. Help her to see mistakes she makes. Give her sincere praise when she earns it. Spend as much time with her as you can and have your husband do the same. Let her know you love her dearly. She needs your support. Many small children have her problem and nearly all of them overcome it.

D.L. "Our son is 12. My wife scolds me because I call him names. I often call him 'Dummy,' 'Lamebrain' or 'Stupid.' When he was little he didn't seem to mind. Now he does. If I stop calling him names he may lose his respect for me. Don't most fathers call their boys names?"

Reply. A great many fathers do, but it isn't wise. Your boy will have greater respect for you if you stop the name-calling. He needs your love and support, not your sarcasm.

N.T. "Is there a good book to guide parents of children in the grades? My girl is 6, my boy 10. I need advice."

Reply. Get "Guiding Your Child from 5 to 12," published by Parent's Magazine. It contains reprints of many articles. You'll find it helpful.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Q P A N K T V; P R E O B C L T U N T G V
E N H N Q Q N U O B C Z—T C X C Q P O L N R.

Three Drivers Draw Sentences

Three drunken drivers were sentenced yesterday by Judge Harold J. Haley of Municipal Court for their first convictions.

Charles James McDonald, 64, Richmond bartender, and John Alexander MacKenzie, 40, of 28 Tulane Drive, Larkspur, each drew identical sentences. They were placed on six months probation, paid $184 fine each, and for the next 90 days, may drive only for work and emergencies.

McDonald was caught on Highway 101 near Black Point cutoff on Thursday. MacKenzie was arrested at Magnolia Avenue and Bon Air Road in Larkspur on Oct. 4.

Anthony Bert Twardowski, 59, of Willits lost his license for 90 days and must pay $158 fine. He was caught on Highway 101 at Miller Creek Road on Sept. 6.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

We Should Not Have Threatened To Quit U.N.

One of the most alarming developments in the United Nations this week came not from Nikita Khrushchev, but from the United States' representatives.

The headline which struck a chill into people everywhere who look to the United Nations as our only road to worldwide peace, said:

"U. S. Threatens Pullout If China Gets In U. N."

Even if we were only bluffing, we shouldn't be making threats like that.

Let's face it, the United Nations has held together these 15 years because the United States has been willing to shoulder more than its share of the burdens and expense of the international organization. It has grown and become more widely accepted because we have nurtured and protected it.

Any other nation could walk out and the U. N. could survive. The Soviet Union did it once. The U. N. voted to go into Korea. Russia rushed back into active membership fast.

Today a walkout of the communist bloc would destroy the worldwide nature of the U. N., but the organization would go on.

Not so if the U. S. withdrew. Without us and our financial support, the international structure could not be maintained in any effective measure.

So just the thought that the United States might withdraw, frightens the smaller nations and our allies who have come to place increasing confidence in the U. N.

This is no time in which to help anyone lose confidence in the United Nations. Regardless of what our aims were in making such a statement, and they obviously were to make sure Red China is not admitted to membership, we should not use the weapon of our withdrawal for such a purpose. The means do not justify the end.

Although the Independent-Journal has not supported admission of Red China to the U. N., it is conceivable to us that the United States and Red China could exist in the same organization. It is not conceivable to us that the U. N. could be effecitve without us. Certainly the League of Nations couldn't.

We regret that our representative in the U. N. made such a statement. We must now set out to prove that it was a foolish bluff, that we have faith in the U. N., that we do not ever intend to use our membership as a lever to get our way.

PRAYER FOR PROGRESS

Bouquets And Brickbats

A BOUQUET to Leland H. Jordan, Marin County's first county counsel, who resigned as of a month from today to enter private practice after three years as county counsel and five years as a deputy district attorney.

AND A BOUQUET, too, to E. Warren McGuire, Jordan's assistant, who was named to replace him.

BOUQUETS to the Pittsburgh Pirates for something or other they did in the sports world.

BUT BRICKBATS to Yankee supporters who paid off their honest wagers in pennies.

A BOUQUET to Caryl E. Beattie's class in senior civics at Tamalpais High School which not only visited a meeting of the County Board of Supervisors, but also brought along some questions about county government which were bothering them.

A BOUQUET to the U. S. Coast Guard for beefing up its rescue service off Marin shores by reassigning the cutter Comanche from Morro Bay to Sausalito.

A BRICKBAT to the State Highway Commission which held a secret and unannounced meeting last Tuesday in Hayward (it usually meets in Sacramento) and made decisions on spending taxpayers' money. To make them legal perhaps the commission should do it again in public.

A BOUQUET to Pacific Gas and Electric Co. on their decision to build a modern office building to house both their district and division headquarters on the site of the old gas plant between Second and Third Streets in San Rafael. The new building, and others in the area cleared by the eventual clearing of the old tanks and equipment, will be a welcome new entrance to the city.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

ADVICE FROM OLD TOMBSTONE

"For the Lord Jesus Christ's sake
Do all the good you can,
To all the people you can,
In all the ways you can,
As long as ever you can."

Man people drift through an entire lifetime without ever drawing out their almost limitless capacity for doing good. They tend to build fences of self-interest around themselves, depriving themselves of the full joy living.

Your happiness will increase in proportion to the selflessness with which you serve your fellowman. Think of life with all its complexities as a hop, skip and jump on the way to heaven.

After all, this is your only chance to prove your all-embracing love for others "for the Lord Jesus Christ's sake."

"Walk while you have the light, that darkness may not overtake you."
(John 12:35)

Help me, O Lord, to reach every person possible with Your love before I die.

DEVILS OR ANGELS?

How Special Interest Groups Rate Solons

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON — If your senator or representative is rated a "devil" in the eyes of one of the special interest groups which evaluate congressmen, he's sure to be an "angel" in the eyes of another.

Congressional Quarterly surveyed six major groups, outside of regular Republican and Democratic party organizations, which evaluate congressmen—from the Americans for Democratic Action to the Americans for Constitutional Action. Each group studied was either strongly liberal or strongly conservative in its political leanings.

THE THREE MAJOR "liberal" groups which rate congressmen — Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education (COPE), and the Farmers Union (which backs high price supports)—all gave high scores to most Northern Democrats and low scores to most Republicans and Southern Democrats.

Republicans and Southern Democrats generally fared far better with the three major "conservative" groups rating congressmen — Civic Affairs Associates (CAA), a conservative organization set up in 1959 with executive personnel from the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, Americans for Constitutional Action (ACA), a conservative group which favors drastic curtailment of the role of the Federal Government, and the American Farm Bureau Federation, which opposes government interference in agriculture.

ON THE LIBERAL side, for instance, 17 senators, including California Senator Clair Engle, received 100 per cent "right" votting scores from ADA. Every one of them—including presidential candidate John F. Kennedy — was a Democrat.

Of the 128 House members with 100 per cent perfect ADA voting scores, including Marin Rep. Clement W. Miller, all were Democrats.

Republicans and Southern Democrats rated very low with ADA. While no Northern Democrat in either House scored "0" with ADA, 23 Republican and 25 Southern members of Congress received 0's, indicating that they had voted "wrong" on every key vote selected by ADA.

With slight variations, the same senators and their parties fared just as well or just as badly with the other two liberal organiztions, COPE and the Farmers Union, as they did with ADA.

ON THE CONSERVATIVE side, Civic Affairs Associates gave 100 perfect scores to six senators — five Republicans and one Democrat, Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia. Twenty-eight senators scored "0" with CAA—every one a Democrat, including Kennedy and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, his running mate. ACA gave 20 House members 100 per cent scores. All were Republicans. It gave 97 House members scores of "0." All were Democrats.

The figures of Americans for Constitutional Action were based on a "Consistency Index," which the organization defined as the percentage of the time a congressman voted "FOR safeguarding the God-given dignity of the individual, and promoting sound economic growth, through strengthening Constitutional government; AGAINST collective morality, and a socialized economy through centralizing power." According to ACA's figures, conservative Republicans and Southern Democrats came closest to voting "right" on these issues.

Here is the way California's two senators and Marin's congressman were scored:

Engle—ADA 100; COPE 100; Farmer's Union 90; Farm Bureau 0; CAA 0; ACA 0.

Sen. Thomas Kuchel (R)—ADA 58; COPE 50; Farmer's Union 22; Farm Bureau 50; CAA 53; ACA 58.

We Should Not Have Threatened To Quit U.N.

One of the most alarming developments in the United Nations this week came not from Nikita Khrushchev, but from the United States' representatives.

The headline which struck a chill into people everywhere who look to the United Nations as our only road to worldwide peace, said:

Even if we were only bluffing, we shouldn't be making threats like that.

Let's face it, the United Nations has held together these 15 years because the United States has been willing to shoulder more than its share of the burdens and expense of the international organization. It has grown and become more widely accepted because we have nurtured and protected it.

Any other nation could walk out and the U. N. could survive. The Soviet Union did it once. The U. N. voted to go into Korea. Russia rushed back into active membership fast.

Today a walkout of the communist bloc would destroy the worldwide nature of the U. N., but the organization would go on.

Not so if the U. S. withdrew. Without us and our financial support, the international structure could not be maintained in any effective measure.

So just the thought that the United States might withdraw, frightens the smaller nations and our allies who have come to place increasing confidence in the U. N.

This is no time in which to help anyone lose confidence in the United Nations. Regardless of what our aims were in making such a statement, and they obviously were to make sure Red China is not admitted to membership, we should not use the weapon of our withdrawal for such a purpose. The means do not justify the end.

Although the Independent-Journal has not supported admission of Red China to the U. N., it is conceivable to us that the United States and Red China could exist in the same organization. It is not conceivable to us that the U. N. could be effecitve without us. Certainly the League of Nations couldn't.

We regret that our representative in the U. N. made such a statement. We must now set out to prove that it was a foolish bluff, that we have faith in the U. N., that we do not ever intend to use our membership as a lever to get our way.

PRAYER FOR PROGRESS

Bouquets And Brickbats

A BOUQUET to Leland H. Jordan, Marin County's first county counsel, who resigned as of a month from today to enter private practice after three years as county counsel and five years as a deputy district attorney.

AND A BOUQUET, too, to E. Warren McGuire, Jordan's assistant, who was named to replace him.

BOUQUETS to the Pittsburgh Pirates for something or other they did in the sports world.

BUT BRICKBATS to Yankee supporters who paid off their honest wagers in pennies.

A BOUQUET to Caryl E. Beattie's class in senior civics at Tamalpais High School which not only visited a meeting of the County Board of Supervisors, but also brought along some questions about county government which were bothering them.

A BOUQUET to the U. S. Coast Guard for beefing up its rescue service off Marin shores by reassigning the cutter Comanche from Morro Bay to Sausalito.

A BRICKBAT to the State Highway Commission which held a secret and unannounced meeting last Tuesday in Hayward (it usually meets in Sacramento) and made decisions on spending taxpayers' money. To make them legal perhaps the commission should do it again in public.

A BOUQUET to Pacific Gas and Electric Co. on their decision to build a modern office building to house both their district and division headquarters on the site of the old gas plant between Second and Third Streets in San Rafael. The new building, and others in the area cleared by the eventual clearing of the old tanks and equipment, will be a welcome new entrance to the city.

ADVICE FROM OLD TOMBSTONE

"For the Lord Jesus Christ's sake
Do all the good you can,
To all the people you can,
In all the ways you can,
As long as ever you can."

Man people drift through an entire lifetime without ever drawing out their almost limitless capacity for doing good. They tend to build fences of self-interest around themselves, depriving themselves of the full joy living.

Your happiness will increase in proportion to the selflessness with which you serve your fellowman. Think of life with all its complexities as a hop, skip and jump on the way to heaven.

After all, this is your only chance to prove your all-embracing love for others "for the Lord Jesus Christ's sake."

"Walk while you have the light, that darkness may not overtake you."
(John 12:35)

Help me, O Lord, to reach every person possible with Your love before I die.

DEVILS OR ANGELS?

How Special Interest Groups Rate Solons

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON — If your senator or representative is rated a "devil" in the eyes of one of the special interest groups which evaluate congressmen, he's sure to be an "angel" in the eyes of another.

Congressional Quarterly surveyed six major groups, outside of regular Republican and Democratic party organizations, which evaluate congressmen—from the Americans for Democratic Action to the Americans for Constitutional Action. Each group studied was either strongly liberal or strongly conservative in its political leanings.

THE THREE MAJOR "liberal" groups which rate congressmen — Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education (COPE), and the Farmers Union (which backs high price supports)— all gave high scores to most Northern Democrats and low scores to most Republicans and Southern Democrats.

Republicans and Southern Democrats generally fared far better with the three major "conservative" groups rating congressmen — Civic Affairs Associates (CAA), a conservative organization set up in 1959 with executive personnel from the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, Americans for Constitutional Action (ACA), a conservative group which favors drastic curtailment of the role of the Federal Government, and the American Farm Bureau Federation, which opposes government interference in agriculture.

ON THE LIBERAL side, for instance, 17 senators, including California Senator Clair Engle, received 100 per cent "right" votting scores from ADA. Every one of them—including presidential candidate John F. Kennedy — was a Democrat.

Of the 128 House members with 100 per cent perfect ADA voting scores, including Marin Rep. Clement W. Miller, all were Democrats.

Republicans and Southern Democrats rated very low with ADA. While no Northern Democrat in either House scored "0" with ADA, 23 Republican and 25 Southern members of Congress received 0's, indicating that they had voted "wrong" on every key vote selected by ADA.

With slight variations, the same senators and their parties fared just as well or just as badly with the other two liberal organiztions, COPE and the Farmers Union, as they did with ADA.

ON THE CONSERVATIVE side, Civic Affairs Associates gave 100 perfect scores to six senators — five Republicans and one Democrat, Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia. Twenty-eight senators scored "0" with CAA—every one a Democrat, including Kennedy and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, his running mate. ACA gave 20 House members 100 per cent scores. All were Republicans. It gave 97 House members scores of "0." All were Democrats.

The figures of Americans for Constitutional Action were based on a "Consistency Index," which the organization defined as the percentage of the time a congressman voted "FOR safeguarding the God-given dignity of the individual, and promoting sound economic growth, through strengthening Constitutional government; AGAINST collective morality, and a socialized economy through centralizing power." According to ACA's figures, conservative Republicans and Southern Democrats came closest to voting "right" on these issues.

Here is the way California's two senators and Marin's congressman were scored:

Engle—ADA 100; COPE 100; Farmer's Union 90; Farm Bureau 0; CAA 0; ACA 0.

Sen. Thomas Kuchel (R)—ADA 58; COPE 50; Farmer's Union 22; Farm Bureau 50; CAA 53; ACA 58.

Miller—ADA 100; COPE 100; Farmer's Union 100; Farm Bureau 17; CAA 0; ACA 0.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

GOP To Get $4,950 From Lodge Dinner

By CHAPIN A. DAY

DAY

Marin's Republican political causes will get something like $4,950 from the highly successful dinner Monday night for vice presidential candidate Henry Cabot Lodge in the San Francisco Cow Palace.

Marin organizations sold 85 tickets to the $100 per plate affair. Ninety per cent of everything more than $3,000 came back to the local organizations.

Elmer S. Worlund, former chairman of the GOP county central committee, chairmaned the ticket committee in Marin. Assisting him were Norman B. Livermore Jr., David Winslow, present central committee chairman; Walter F. Kiekhefer, Jr., Virginia V. Wishersham, Mary Ellen Irwin, Richard Grant and Joseph H. Mendoza.

Organizations who participated included the United Republican Finance Committee, the Republican Council, Pro America, the Federation of Republican Women and the Young Republicans.

Incidentally, it was claimed the dinner was two and a half times larger than any ever held around these parts.

We noticed that the Republicans apparently have written off Hawaii and Alaska to the Democrats. The flag that the American Legion team brought in appeared to have only 48 stars.

NEW MUNICIPAL Judge Joseph G. Wilson has withdrawn from active participation in the Everett Matzen campaign for the Marin-Sonoma Assembly seat. Wilson, Matzen's campaign chairman until his appointment to the bench, said the candidate "will carry into the election my continued good wishes for his success."

Matzen immediately announced that San Rafael attorney Thomas Boyd would replace Wilson as Marin chairman.

MANNY CHARNOW has been named chairman of the Marin Senior Citizens for Kennedy and is trying to round up supporters to go to San Francisco next Tuesday afternoon to hear Rep. Aime J. Forand, who authored the bill tying medical care to social security. Incidentally, Aime is a man.

THE CHAIRMAN of the Los Angeles Board of Supervisors, Frank Bonelli, has assured Ada Fusselman by long distance telephone, that a speaker will be on hand Monday night in College of Marin's Olney Hall to argue for passage of Proposition 15, the measure to reapportion the State Senate. Sen. John F. McCarthy of San Rafael will speak against the proposition.

We heard a discussion of the issue the other day and one feller sez tother feller: "That thin line between sanity and insanity should be called the Tehachapis."

FORMER DEMOCRATIC Rep. Clarence F. Lea of Santa Rosa has repudiated Rep. Clement W. Miller of Corte Madera for his claim that "for the first time the First District is getting the kind of representation it deserves."

In a letter to the Press-Democrat, which published the editorial on the subject the I-J reprinted last month, Lea declared:

"I take pride in my service in Congress and this indiscriminate reflection on my service, as well as the commendable representation by other Congressmen of our First District, is unworthy of any man suitable for such a position."

Miller will be honoree at a reception tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the South Marin Recreation Center, Tiburon. Fred Mantegani is chairman assisted by E. Patrick Healy, Mrs. Margaret Azevedo and Mrs. Robert Harmon.

Schools Aide Doesn't Know Baseball, Just Series' Pools

Everybody is still talking about the great World Series. Even Edwin L. Blackmore, administrative assistant of the county schools, who scarcely knew there was a game going on, let alone who was playing whom.

Seems Nancy Hayden, sports-minded secretary at the school office, quietly entered the boss' name in a baseball pool "just for kicks" last Wednesday. The number hit a $2.50 jackpot.

IS FORMER Assessor George Hall interested in a comeback against the man who beat him in the last election, Bert Broemmel?

For the moment, Hall seems to be enjoying his taste of relaxation and "not seriously thinking" of running in 1962.

A PROMINENT San Rafael lawyer got paid 60,000 the other day in a brief criminal case. That's 60,000 in genuine Japanese yen notes, and the whole stack is worth about $160.

Trouble is, you can't exchange it or spend it unless you go to Japan. He's thinking about a quick trip to the Far East.

JOB QUALIFICATION for switchboard operator at San Rafael City Hall is probably the toughest in the county.

The new switchboard desk at the entrance to the cubby hole is a bit wider than the old one. Only nine and three-eighth inches of space between the desk and the wall.

The switchboard girls must squeeze through that space morning, noon and night.

Trim Doris Steele holds down the job now, but she has to watch her diet every day to be able to make it to work.

FIRE PREVENTION Week, this week, is as good as ever. But it isn't quite the same without the late Capt. Virgilio Cheda.

He used to plod through San Rafael in his size 16 shoes making sure that everything was just right.

It sounds so tired that if a real burglar hits, we're afraid the alarm'll be too feeble to yell.

No location for a Marin County Airport could be found to meet approval from the Civil Aeronautics Authority, according to Haskins Huntington, county planning engineer. Both San Rafael and Mill Valley have been designated as cities authorized to receive federal funds in a program including 138 California locations.

A petition asking the San Rafael City Council to call an election on proposed amendment to the city charter, clarifying powers of the police chief, was filed with the city clerk's office with 996 names of voters.

I want to thank you for the outstanding job your paper did in telling the community about the Tam High School District bond election, and in documenting the need for enlarged facilities at our high schools.

The fact that only 31 per cent of the voters in the district bothered to go to the polls, indicates an appalling apathy that is the worst enemy of our democratic system.

To the people who voted against better education for our teen agers, I want to say that you voted for juvenile delinquency and against increased knowledge and understanding; the most powerful weapons of a free society in a world where progress is now a necessity for survival.

In the recent past, Vice President Nixon broke a tie vote in the Senate that killed for now, increased federal aid to education. He said that aid to schools is a local problem, to be solved locally.

Tuesday's negative local vote is a blow to education from our own community. Let us face the responsibility that we alone can help ourselves, and try again.

IN NEXT WEEK'S MAGAZINE—

IF YOU WERE a Marin resident during World War II you remember them — the days when Marinship was the working place of thousands upon thousands of people. Those were the days when skilled craftsmen, their ranks swollen by new recruits from scores of professions, labored long and hard turning out ships for Uncle Sam's war effort. Harry Craft, the Independent-Journal business editor and columnist, was one of those wartime shipbuilders. And in next week's Marin Magazine, with the assistance of photographs taken during those busy and crucial times, he will recall for you the years when the newly-built Liberty ships, the fleet oilers and the tankers were slipping down the ways at Marinship.

It's Art Festival Weekend In Sausalito, So Don't Miss It

VISITORS TO this weekend's Sasualito Arts Festival are certain to note a number of changes.

First, it is strictly a Marin affair. Exhibitors have been restricted to Marinites.

The result has been a considerable improvement in the general level of exhibits—a stress on quality rather than quantity.

The trend is not accidental. It is the result of predetermined policy on the part of festival officials.

They noted with some dismay last year that commercial displays had come to overshadow the purely artistic. And that a considerable number of the pieces on display fell far short of the artistic tone that festival officials felt should be maintained.

They also noted that most of the ordinary or worse stuff being shown was coming in from out of the county.

Festival officials decided upon a clean sweep. Thus the policy of opening the show to Marinites only, automatically disqualifying many of the exhibitors who had cluttered up the 1959 festival with tasteless work.

Entry rules generally have been tightened this year. And all work has undergone expert perusal before being accepted.

The result has been the "weeding out" of the lesser stuff, and the inclusion of interesting, worthwhile pieces only.

There is an exception to the rule barring out-of-county artists. But then he is sort of an honorary Marinite. "Star" of this year's show is Luis Guzman, South American artist who will represent Sausalito's sister city, Vina del Mar, where he is a university professor.

But otherwise the 1960 festival is an all-Marin affair, except, of course, for the visitors.

Art festival weekend has come to be one of Sausalito's biggest tourist weekends.

Still the grounds—the city parking lot in the heart of the downtown district — are fairly spacious. And the two-day run of the show provides sufficient time to minimize congestion. You should be able to browse without trouble and enjoy the art.

There is an admission charge this year, but it is a small one—25 cents.

The show continues until dusk this evening, and will run again tomorrow from 9 a.m. to nightfall.

There is something special about an outdoor art show in Sausalito. The waterfront setting is perfect. And the atmosphere adds immensely to one's enjoyment of the artwork.

So don't let the tourists scare you away.

Jump in the family jalopy and drive to Sausalito. Resign your self to some heavy traffic on the way and don't fret when the cars get bumper-to-bumper as you approach Sausalito. Once there, you may be surprised to discover for yourself just how talented many of your fellow Marinites are.

And you might find that even brushing elbows with the visiting tourists isn't so bad.

After all, anyone who likes Marin enough to spend precious weekend or vacation days with us, and who enjoys art, can't be all bad. As a matter of fact, most of them are pretty darned nice people.

IN NEXT WEEK'S MAGAZINE —

IF YOU WERE a Marin resident during World War II you remember them — the days when Marinship was the working place of thousands upon thousands of people. Those were the days when skilled craftsmen, their ranks swollen by new recruits from scores of professions, labored long and hard turning out ships for Uncle Sam's war effort. Harry Craft, the Independent-Journal business editor and columnist, was one of those wartime shipbuilders. And in next week's Marin Magazine, with the assistance of photographs taken during those busy and crucial times, he will recall for you the years when the newly-built Liberty ships, the fleet oilers and the tankers were slipping down the ways at Marinship.

A MARIN PROFILE

By BRUCE COLEMAN

While men and women wait in wooden chairs in the Mill Valley Council chambers, they may be seen to yawn and sometimes stare up at the braced, open-gabled roof.

But one man does not yawn. He is Alex Edward Almcrants, city manager.

Almcrants, or Al as he is called so frequently, sits on one of the leather-covered swivel chairs between the council members. Before him is a pile of papers usually effecting one or more of the people in the audience.

He wears a black suit, his hair is combed pompadour, his smile is quick.

He doesn't fumble with the papers. When Mayor Robert D. Huber calls off the matter on the agenda, Almcrants simply pulls out the right paper.

IF NECESSARY, he capsulizes the history of the case. If necessary, he recalls for the council a similar case in 1956 and tells of the disposition.

Occasionally he may muse about a fishing trip in the high Sierra. But, if so, this does not hinder his efficiency.

The likeable 47-year old guy has been city manager since April, 1951 — enough time to see many changes in Mill Valley, many people come and go, many new street lights and sewers.

During his time the hassel over Cascade Dam has exploded chronically and then simmered down, "rivers of mud" have flowed down the hillsides of the city; the Greyhound buses have been moved and have not been moved.

During those years many acres have been added to the city and the city has pushed its borders out almost to Highway 101 on one side and to the top of the Corte Madera Ridge on the other.

Population has sprung from 7,000 to 10,000.

During those years — on vacation and after work — many fish have been caught when Almcrants separated himself from the ever-ringing telephone and the frequent visitor.

AS THE CLOCK ticks off the time in the city hall chambers under the 20-foot wide painting of Mount Tamalpais by E. Serbaroli, there is time to tell you about Alex Edward Almcrants.

He was born in San Francisco in 1914, the son of an auto mechanic. Both his parents were Swedish born. He was the only child.

He went to Farragut Grammar School in the Ingleside District, then to Lick Wilmerding where he majored in architecture and later to the Lick Wilmerding Junior College where he majored in civil engineering, and from which he was graduated in 1933.

From there he took some course at the San Francisco Architectural Club.

"Times were pretty hard then. It was right after the depression and jobs were scarce," Almcrants said. He went to work for a subdivider down the Peninsula doing landscaping and surveying for a year.

Next he worked for Schwabacher and Frey in San Francisco in the printing plant doing office work. During this time he went to night school at San Francisco College of Business Administration, now San Francisco Law School, studying business administration for two years.

From 1935 to 1936 he worked as manager of an electrical construction repair department with the California Electrical Construction Co.

BY 1936 HE had saved some money and decided to go to college. He entered the University of California at Berkeley, studying engineering and taking some courses in mining.

He worked his way through the university doing different work on construction jobs in the Sierra in the summer and at other times did maintenance work in the old San Francisco Chronicle Building on Market Street. He also made and sold mortar and pestle arrangements of metal for mineralogical studies. He was graduated in 1940.

On graduation, Almcrants worked for the U.S. Bureau of Mines in Tracy. "I might have stayed with them but they had no examinations coming up at the time for civil service," he said. He stayed four months.

"Then I went to work for Columbia Steel in Pittsburg, working out of a laboratory as a metalurgical observer and inspector." He was there one year.

In 1941 the boy from Ingleside married Mildred J. Giusto of San Francisco, his college sweetheart. "She actually did not live far from me," Almcrants said. "She was from the Excelsior District."

"At Cal," Almcrants said, "Millie was going to affairs in the California Masonic Club. She was a Roman Catholic. I was a Presbyterian and going to the Newman Club which is a Catholic organization. One time a friend of mine asked me to attend an affair at the Masonic Club. I did and that's where I met my wife." Almcrants became a Catholic at the time of his marriage.

In 1941, Almcrants heard about a job in San Francisco with Bethlehem Steel to do surveying for the shipyard.

"When the war arrived, I was working for Bethlehem Steel and I stayed with them until 1943, working both in San Francisco and in the Alameda shipyards as engineer." Almcrants tried to join the military service but was told to stay in his vital shipyard job.

In 1943 Almcrants went to work with the Aetna Steel Products Corp. as assistant manager and chief engineer. "We supplied all the furniture, bulkheads and interior finishes, and did other jobs as designated by Bethlehem Steel." He worked in Alameda, San Francisco, Napa, Olympia, Wash., and at Terminal Island in Southern California.

The Aetna company was winding up a good portion of its local work in March of 1948, Almcrants said, and it was decided it would be moved back east.

"I said, 'now what am I going to do?' I weighed it carefully and looked around for something good," said Almcrants. "Then I heard of an opening in Mill Valley for an engineer as director of public works.

"I had hiked over here many years ago as a kid with the Boy Scouts. I knew I liked the area," he added. (Almcrants said he had been scoutmaster of San Francisco Troop 80 and also had become an Eagle Scout.)

ALMCRANTS came to Mill Valley as director of public works that year when Ted Adsit was city manager. He stayed as director until April 1951, and during this time when Adsit left and Silas Richards became city manager. When Richards left for active duty in the Air Force, Almcrants took his place.

The job of city manager, Almcrants said, was elective when Will Falley had it. Then, by a vote of the people, it was made appointive. When Adsit came in 1948, after the elec-

Tips on Purchase and Home Care of Your Wardrobe

"Do Modern Fabrics Catch Fire Spontaneously?"

Some do. You or a friend may have had the experience. A number of drycleaners and launderers did until they learned how to avoid such fires.

Many modern garments and articles of wearing apparel have rubberized linings or pads to stiffen or form them. Some of these are hidden from view and the labels won't tell you they are there. When these garments are taken hot from a dryer and left in a hamper or bundle, the other garments insulate them. Heat builds up and you have a blaze started. The same thing can occur with some of our modern nonwoven fabrics.

Many a drycleaning plant or laundry has been destroyed by such fires started after the garments were dried and wrapped in bundles or left in hampers overnight to be finished the next morning. They were. So was the plant. The same thing can happen in your home if these garments are bundled up or packed in a hamper while still hot from the dryer.

So when removing garments from a dryer, make certain that they have been aired and cooled before packing them away or stuffing them in a basket or hamper. You may avoid a tragedy by this simple precaution.

Mill Valleyans Bring Their Problems To Al Almcrants

tion, they appointed him city manager and also "dumped the title on him of city clerk," said Almcrants.

When Robert Baumberger was here, Almcrants added, he was city manager and Falley was city clerk. Falley left in 1948.

The telephone rang in Almcrants office on the main floor of the city hall. People appeared at the door, checked briefly on matters, then disappeared.

Almcrants is a diplomat, we thought, should be in the Congo.

On the walls of his office are maps, books, a picture of redwoods, a picture of a violin with bow, letter and sheet music. In one corner are awards to the city manager, a certificate of appreciation for "invaluable service" from the Mill Valley Lions Club. A certificate from the Institute for Training in Municipal Administration from an extension course taken in management and finance administration.

"There's never a dull moment in my job," Almcrants said. "Always something going on. Days never drag. Come to work in the morning, the first thing you know it will be 6 o'clock."

"THE BIGGEST difficulty is trying to keep everybody happy—which no one can do."

His wife says, "He is completely dedicated to the city of Mill Valley. He's never missed a city council meeting. If he is on vacation, he comes down from the mountains or wherever to go to the meeting. I've seen him get up out of a sick bed to get to a city council meeting."

Many changes have taken place in the city and its affairs and methods of doing business during the almost 10 years Almcrants has been city manager.

During his time the city has set up a program to develop a capital outlay fund for sewer purposes; starting in 1951 in Crest Marin and charging $100 per home, the city has brought in $14,700.

At about the same time, the city manager suggested, and the suggestion was accepted, an administrative change requiring sanitary districts to bring some extra dollars into the city. Prior to this time the districts were not so charged, Almcrants said.

Almcrants has worked on a neighborhood street rehabilitation program, making a complete analysis of all city streets and lanes and setting up a priority schedule. The total estimated cost is $50,000, Almcrants said, and so far $10,000 of it has been accomplished.

He is presently working with private property owners to acquire land for the Smallcraft Harbor; he is also working with the state and Mill Valley planning consultant Robert Cornish towards updating the city's master plan and for developing a capital improvement program.

Other projects have taken much time and work including getting $50,000 from the state and federal governments for disaster relief money.

HE HAS WORKED on getting a sewer expansion grant of $50,000 for the city; for a plan for getting money for a parks and recreation plan from state and federal governments. "We have got $3,000 for this," the city manager said.

The larger projects are not always familiar to the citizens. But there are dozens of queries which the city gets which must be answered and solved.

"We used to get many calls regarding trees about to fall down, for example," he said. For the most part the city's trees are in pretty good shape now, trimmed and taken care of.

Mill Valley's city manager, one might say, has a direct line to the pulse of the people—the telephone. He gets calls at the office and at home. About bees, poison oak, skunks, Christmas carolers, garbage cans.

"We get calls on bees and mosquitos and other insects. These are referred to the county agricultural department or mosquito abatement district.

"Once we had a problem of a dead horse in a basement. We notified a veterinarian.

"We get calls on parked cars in front of houses. Although they are parked on the city right of way, they do deprive certain property owners of what they think is their own parking area."

"ONCE A PERSON left a lot of dogs in the house when he was away. Finally we resolved this through the local vets and the police department," he said. "What a mess.

"We get complaints of skunks, calls on raccoons raiding the garbage cans and creating a general nuisance. The funniest was the case of John Hoopingarner.

"John had a dog for a long time. The dog was put away so the raccoons decided this was a wonderful place to be. John left his front door open and in would march mother and father and baby raccoons asking for nourishment. He gave them cookies. This kept up for a while.

"Once in awhile he would have his door closed and the raccoons would peek up over the window. Then John got another dog. That was the end of the raccoon parade.

"We get calls on deer. Many times they are shot by the police department. We get calls on termites, also powder post beetles. They are worse than termites.

"We also get problems on flood and drainage. Once we had a call that the house was flooding. We investigated and found the window was open and it was raining in."

Mrs. Almcrants tells the story of how her husband went about all night the night the time Mill Valley flooded about five years ago. "He had been working in the streets and he fell in a hole and was sopped from one end to another," she said. "Someone sent him a letter commending him for showing so much interest, didn't expect to see him out helping, nor in a hole full of water."

ALMCRANTS gets calls on business license enforcement, traffic enforcement, street problems, drainage, culverts, signs, noisy neighbors and complaints against Christmas carolers.

People call, he said, asking the city to remove poison oak. "We try to take care of it where people are walking," Almcrants said.

"There are also those who complain of dust and debris. Street lights—either they are too bright or too dark. We get calls on whether a street should be improved. Some people want to keep them unimproved; otherwise, they say, people will travel through enjoying the atmosphere."

Mill Valleyans Bring Their Problems To Al Almcrants

tion, they appointed him city manager and also "dumped the title on him of city clerk," said Almcrants.

When Robert Baumberger was here, Almcrants added, he was city manager and Falley was city clerk. Falley left in 1948.

The telephone rang in Almcrants office on the main floor of the city hall. People appeared at the door, checked briefly on matters, then disappeared.

Almcrants is a diplomat, we thought, should be in the Congo.

On the walls of his office are maps, books, a picture of redwoods, a picture of a violin with bow, letter and sheet music. In one corner are awards to the city manager, a certificate of appreciation for "invaluable service" from the Mill Valley Lions Club. A certificate from the Institute for Training in Municipal Administration from an extension course taken in management and finance administration.

"There's never a dull moment in my job," Almcrants said. "Always something going on. Days never drag. Come to work in the morning, the first thing you know it will be 6 o'clock."

His wife says, "He is completely dedicated to the city of Mill Valley. He's never missed a city council meeting. If he is on vacation, he comes down from the mountains or wherever to go to the meeting. I've seen him get up out of a sick bed to get to a city council meeting."

Many changes have taken place in the city and its affairs and methods of doing business during the almost 10 years Almcrants has been city manager.

During his time the city has set up a program to develop a capital outlay fund for sewer purposes; starting in 1951 in Crest Marin and charging $100 per home, the city has brought in $14,700.

At about the same time, the city manager suggested, and the suggestion was accepted, an administrative change requiring sanitary districts to bring some extra dollars into the city. Prior to this time the districts were not so charged, Almcrants said.

Almcrants has worked on a neighborhood street rehabilitation program, making a complete analysis of all city streets and lanes and setting up a priority schedule. The total estimated cost is $50,000, Almcrants said, and so far $10,000 of it has been accomplished.

He is presently working with private property owners to acquire land for the Smallcraft Harbor; he is also working with the state and Mill Valley planning consultant Robert Cornish towards updating the city's master plan and for developing a capital improvement program.

Other projects have taken much time and work including getting $50,000 from the state and federal governments for disaster relief money.

HE HAS WORKED on getting a sewer expansion grant of $50,000 for the city; for a plan for getting money for a parks and recreation plan from state and federal governments. "We have got $3,000 for this," the city manager said.

The larger projects are not always familiar to the citizens. But there are dozens of queries which the city gets which must be answered and solved.

"We used to get many calls regarding trees about to fall down, for example," he said. For the most part the city's trees are in pretty good shape now, trimmed and taken care of.

Mill Valley's city manager, one might say, has a direct line to the pulse of the people—the telephone. He gets calls at the office and at home. About bees, poison oak, skunks, Christmas carolers, garbage cans.

"We get calls on bees and mosquitos and other insects. These are referred to the county agricultural department or mosquito abatement district.

"Once we had a problem of a dead horse in a basement. We notified a veterinarian.

"We get calls on parked cars in front of houses. Although they are parked on the city right of way, they do deprive certain property owners of what they think is their own parking area."

"ONCE A PERSON left a lot of dogs in the house when he was away. Finally we resolved this through the local vets and the police department," he said. "What a mess.

"We get complaints of skunks, calls on raccoons raiding the garbage cans and creating a general nuisance. The funniest was the case of John Hoopingarner.

"John had a dog for a long time. The dog was put away so the raccoons decided this was a wonderful place to be. John left his front door open and in would march mother and father and baby raccoons asking for nourishment. He gave them cookies. This kept up for a while.

"Once in awhile he would have his door closed and the raccoons would peek up over the window. Then John got another dog. That was the end of the raccoon parade.

"We get calls on deer. Many times they are shot by the police department. We get calls on termites, also powder post beetles. They are worse than termites.

"We also get problems on flood and drainage. Once we had a call that the house was flooding. We investigated and found the window was open and it was raining in."

Mrs. Almcrants tells the story of how her husband went about all night the night the time Mill Valley flooded about five years ago. "He had been working in the streets and he fell in a hole and was sopped from one end to another," she said. "Someone sent him a letter commending him for showing so much interest, didn't expect to see him out helping, nor in a hole full of water."

ALMCRANTS gets calls on business license enforcement, traffic enforcement, street problems, drainage, culverts, signs, noisy neighbors and complaints against Christmas carolers.

People call, he said, asking the city to remove poison oak. "We try to take care of it where people are walking," Almcrants said.

"There are also those who complain of dust and debris. Street lights—either they are too bright or too dark. We get calls on whether a street should be improved. Some people want to keep them unimproved; otherwise, they say, people will travel through enjoying the atmosphere."

responsible for filling out a multitude of forms. He attends many meetings, conferences and conventions.

He works with City Attorney Thomas C. Nelson on suits against the city. He works with the Air Pollution Control Board, the rapid transit district and Recco, the recreation group working on Project 17.

Almcrants is working with the Corps of Engineers for a congressional grant in an attempt to improve flood control facilities in Mill Valley.

HE IS WORKING on a fire main extension program to get more fire mains installed.

Almcrants said, "There's always a difference of opinion. Leave it alone, some say. Others say, fix it."

He said "we also have garbage problems. Sometimes, the cans are too full, too heavy or they are full of water. We get complaints when cans are in the wrong location.

"People call me at home to reserve the clubhouse or reserve parks for barbecues or special events," he said.

"There are many projects presently on the books," the city manager said. "There are repairs to be made on the Municipal Golf Clubhouse, an irrigation system and sanitary facilities for Project 17, the smallcraft harbor development, the development of a park at Scott Highland: improvement of the Camino Alto-Miller Avenue intersection as well as a planting strip on Miller from Camino Alto to Reed Street."

But it is not all business for Alex E. Almcrants. There is also home and fishing.

When queries come to the house, Mrs. Almcrants said, she tries to direct people to the proper sources when her husband is not available.

SHE SAID her husband loves Italian food and likes to work in the kitchen. "His specialties are really Swedish dishes though, from his family. He makes krup koka, which is delightful," she said.

"This is a dish made with potato, onion and pork sausage. They are made into large balls, made the day before eating, then sliced on the day you eat and fried. We often have them for breakfast.

Oddly enough, Mrs. Almcrants said, though her husband loves to eat fish. "When he gets fish, I love to eat fish. When he gets fish, we call our friends like mad and see who we can give them to. Sometimes we have a list to call."

The Almcrants have a 16-year-old daughter, Linda Ann, who is a junior at Tamalpais High. "She is interested in music and clothes," her father said. Mrs. Almcrants said, "Al is a busy man and he has a busy daughter."

Mrs. Almcrants is active in the Outdoor Art Club and a member of the Mill Valley Women's Golf Club. She has what she calls "a sort of three-quarters job." She works from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. daily as accountant for the Marin County Housing Authority at Marin City.

"AL LOVES to build," his wife says. "Sometimes he comes home from meetings and builds a piece of furniture or works on the house" which is at 242 Eldridge Avenue.

She said he has just finished an elaborate waterfall which comes down the bank near the patio. "His love for building probably comes from the fact he is from a very poor family and he has had to devise and make. Sometimes he comes home and ties trout flies. He likes to keep busy."

Almcrants, which means rocks and flowers in Swedish, has a special love for the out-of-doors and fishing.

If you ask him where he fishes he might say, "Well, there's a lot of country. All you have to do is haul out a map and see where you want to set down. About through for this year though."

Always interested in botany, flowers and entomology, the man from Ingleside has been going to the Sierra since he was 12 and a Scout.

While we talked to him in his office someone telephoned and, it was apparent, wanted the city manager to go fishing when he got off work.

"Excuse me, . . . pass me this time. You find out how it goes (speaking of fish). How do you get there Jack? . . . Oh, go down frontage road and drive under the bridge and park off to the side." (He was speaking to Jack Silva from the corporation yard.)

ALMCRANTS has a 40 horsepower motor fibreglas boat. "Mainly used in fishing," he said, "That's all. No water skiing," he added jovially.

On a recent trip, he fished with Edwin Giesecke, Ross Benson, Cecil Sellers. They went to No Ear Bar on the middle fork of the Feather River.

Benson said, "Al is always the camp cook. He does the shopping, prepares most of the meal. On the No Ear Bar trip, we had package potatoes. We were going to fry them for breakfast as patties. They were a little thin so to make a half way decent patty, Al mixed flour with them. We wound up with mashed potato pancakes — but they were good."

The city manager's most constant fishing mate is Giesecke, who heads the treatment plant crew. He says of Almcrants, "When he gets up in the mountains, just leave him go."

Giesecke said when they go they take a truck as far as they can and then hike the rest of the way and camp.

"ONCE," Giesecke said, "on the Royal Gorge of the North Fork of the American River, Al took the wrong trail and wound up in a deep canyon, the Wypena Trail, 1,000 feet above the floor of the valley.

"We went on to camp and about 90 minutes later Al came walking in. He admitted to having got lost . . . 'but the fishing was really good down there because no one ever goes down there," he said.

"Another time," Giesecke said, "Al got caught in Devil's Gulch after dark. He went in water up to his chin. Came up the precipice on the other side with his clothes all torn.

"I was never so scared in all my life," he told us. But Almcrants added, "I would like to go back there again in the daytime."

In the wintertime, Almcrants and he confine their fishing to Pt. Reyes after steelhead and Fort Barry for striped bass, Giesecke said.

Almcrants started building his own house in 1948 and finished in 1950. "Timber construction as per code," he grinned. "A lot of the framework came out of the old telephone building. Instead of having conventional two-by-fours, I have four-by-fours. Instead of the normal floor joist across the living room, I have four-by-twelves."

He also likes to golf and to garden, says deputy city clerk Mrs. Lucretia Little.

The amiable city manager is well liked in the city hall. He is the man who hears the complaints and takes quick steps to solve them.

HE IS THE man who sits on the swivel chair in between the council members, doing his best to see that the government runs well and continues to improve for Mill Valley and its citizens.

He is the man who says, "It is impossible to keep everybody happy—but we try."

The Man Who Picks KQED's Programs

Marinite Jonathan Rice Finds His Job A Challenging One

By DON KEOWN

Jonathan Charles Rice has served as news editor and special events coordinator for an unusually active and award winning Los Angeles television station.

He has been picture editor of Look Magazine's book department.

As a Marine Corps officer he handled important public relations assignments, both in this country and abroad during World War II.

He has been a war correspondent in the Pacific.

But he says without hesitation that his present job is "the most fascinating one I have ever had."

Now a resident of Marin, Rice is and has been for the past seven years the program director of the Bay Area's educational television station, KQED of San Francisco.

RICE SAYS that such a position on an educational station "is harder work than a similar post with a commercial station. After all, we operate with a much smaller staff, but still do far more live programming than the average station."

Rice and KQED station manager Jim Day joined the Channel 9 staff the same day —June 1, 1953. Day came from Radio Free Asia, Rice from Los Angeles' KTLA, a TV station with an unusually active service and informational program.

The facilities that greeted the new team of Day and Rice were far from elaborate. In fact Rice's station wagon served them as their office for their first six months.

But they have proven to be a resourceful, hard-hitting imaginative team. Often desperately short on finances, they have still managed to find ways and means that have resulted in a caliber of programming that is the envy of other educational stations throughout the country.

Rice makes no secret of the fact that it was he who sought the job—not KQED that came to him—seven years ago.

AT KTLA, he recalls, one of his prime responsibilities was the daily Shell news program. But to his distress one day he found that son Jeff, then 3, was learning to read, not from children's storybooks, but from commercials.

"Until then, I had been fairly satisfied with my work at KTLA," he says. "But when my little son began parroting these rather childish sales pitches, I thought: 'There must be something more useful that I can do.'"

He heard about the opening at KQED, applied, and landed the job. With him to KQED he brought a rich and varied background.

Rice was born in St. Louis, Mo., in 1916. He graduated from Stanford University in 1938 with an A.B. Degree in social science-journalism and served as associate editor of the Stanford Daily.

After completing his college studies he was employed as assistant manager of the San Francisco office of NEA Service and Acme Newspictures.

Early World War II saw him serving as an overseas war correspondent for NEA and Acme in the Central and Pacific theaters. He covered the arrival of Gen. Douglas MacArthur in Australia, and was with the U.S. forces in New Zealand, New Caledonia, Fiji, Hawaii, Samoa, and the New Hebrides at various times.

COMMISSIONED in the Marine Corps in 1942, he was public relations officer for the Third Amphibious Corps at the Bougainville and Guam landings.

On his return to the U.S. he became executive officer of the Marine Corps Public Information Office in New York, handling all "leatherneck" dealings with magazines, syndicates, book publishers and the broadcasting media.

Returning to overseas duty in 1945, he was attached to V Amphibious Corps, assigned to the occupation of Kyushu and southern Honshu. He served in Japan for five months in charge of public information for the corps' area, with his duties including advising the commanding general on matters pertaining to the Japanese press and censoring Japanese newspaper material.

When he returned to the U.S. in January of 1946 he had completed 34 months of Pacific duty including four major operations.

His first post-war civilian job was with Look Magazine's book department as picture editor in 1946 and 1947. While there he was responsible for two Look books, "Look at America, the South," and "The Official Picture Story of the FBI."

With that station he was in charge of establishing KTLA's general policies and procedures for news coverage plus the supervision of programs in the public service, special events and educational fields.

HE WAS DIRECTLY responsible for 14 weekly television programs which won numerous national and regional awards from such organizations as the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Academy of Arts and Sciences, the American Legion and the National Safety Council.

In the special events category he coordinated and produced from Chicago KTLA's special coverage of the 1952 national conventions. He participated in the coverage of the first atomic bomb explosion to be televised. He headed the station's coverage of the First Marin Division's embarkation for Korea, and of extensive Army and Navy maneuvers.

KTLA was recognized as the Southland's undisputed leader in the field of public service television.

And from 1947 to 1952 Rice was happy with his KTLA responsibilities — until there came the realization that educational television offered him even greater opportunities to develop the type of TV programming to which he was dedicated.

KQED broadcasts on Channel 9, one of 256 television channels set aside for educational TV by the Federal Communications Commission in 1952. It is owned and operated by the Bay Area Educational Television Assn., a nonprofit community corporation. Under the terms of its franchise, KQED must operate as a non-commercial station and cannot accept advertising.

Rice quips: "We've been even more non-profit than we were supposed to be."

THE STATION has had hard going financially at times since its first test pattern was broadcast April 5, 1954, using a four-year old transmitter purchased from KPIX Inc. and converted from Channel 5 to Channel 9. When regular programming was launched on June 10, 1954, KQED had a staff of less than 10 persons and barely $30,000 in the bank. The first programs consisted entirely of film and kinescopes and totalled six hours per week concentrated in two nights. Three months later, on Sept. 16, KQED broadcast its first regularly scheduled live program, Kaleidoscope, which still appears on its log.

During the first two years of operation KQED originated its programs from the John O'Connell Technical Institute using student camera crews. By the summer of 1955 Channel 9 was broadcasting five days a week. And a year later the first professional crews were hired, and the studios and offices were moved to their present location in a leased building, a converted garage, near downtown San Francisco.

The original transmitter was located on the roof of the Mark Hopkins Hotel on Nob Hill. In January of 1957 the transmitter was moved to San Bruno Mountain in northern San Mateo County. And two years later, following a special fund drive, KQED upped its transmitter power from 30 kilowatts to 156 kilowatts.

While KQED has been able to increase its budget steadily—from $102,652 in 1954-55 to approximately $360,000 this year—money has always been and still remains a problem.

Earlier this year Time Magazine carried a story about KQED's selection as winner of the Thomas Alva Edison Foundation award as the nation's outstanding educational TV station. And it noted that program director Rice had paid his own way back to New York to accept the award at a plush banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria because the station had no money to send him.

RICE NOTES that even the

They are Jonathan Charles Rice of Ross, program director, and Dick Ford of Kentfield, star of the popular "Hop, Skip and Dance" show. A number of other Marin residents also hold key positions with the station.

STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania

The world's most famous artists are now available on 4-TRACK STEREO TAPE. 4-Track Tapes are recorded with a two-channel stereo program in each direction. This permits twice as much music to be contained on one 4 Track 7½ inch reel. Tape has many advantages over records: it is the most perfect recording medium; its fidelity remains unchanged even after thousands of hours of use; tapes don't get scratched and worn out.

By building your library of stereo music with tapes, you are building a permanent treasure of music in its highest quality. The same quality of the original master tapes on which the musical programs were recorded.

Effective October 15th, we are launching a Catania Sound Tape Club. For every tape purchased, the customer will receive a tape merchandise ticket. These tickets may be used to purchase more 4-Track Tapes. Visit our Tape Department and get all of the details. While here, pick up your free copy of the new 4-Track Tape catalog.

If you do not own a 4-track tape recorder, let us show you the new model Sony Sterecorders, and the Ampex units. Remember, Music Sounds Best on Tape.

If you wish, send us a card with your name and address and we will send you your copy of the new Tape Catalog.

RICE SAYS that such a position on an educational station "is harder work than a similar post with a commercial station. After all, we operate with a much smaller staff, but still do far more live programming than the average station."

Rice and KQED station manager Jim Day joined the Channel 9 staff the same day —June 1, 1953. Day came from Radio Free Asia, Rice from Los Angeles' KTLA, a TV station with an unusually active service and informational program.

The facilities that greeted the new team of Day and Rice were far from elaborate. In fact Rice's station wagon served them as their office for their first six months.

But they have proven to be a resourceful, hard-hitting imaginative team. Often desperately short on finances, they have still managed to find ways and means that have resulted in a caliber of programming that is the envy of other educational stations throughout the country.

Rice makes no secret of the fact that it was he who sought the job—not KQED that came to him—seven years ago.

AT KTLA, he recalls, one of his prime responsibilities was the daily Shell news program. But to his distress one day he found that son Jeff, then 3, was learning to read, not from children's storybooks, but from commercials.

"Until then, I had been fairly satisfied with my work at KTLA," he says. "But when my little son began parroting these rather childish sales pitches, I thought: 'There must be something more useful that I can do.'"

He heard about the opening at KQED, applied, and landed the job. With him to KQED he brought a rich and varied background.

Rice was born in St. Louis, Mo., in 1916. He graduated from Stanford University in 1938 with an A.B. Degree in social science-journalism and served as associate editor of the Stanford Daily.

After completing his college studies he was employed as assistant manager of the San Francisco office of NEA Service and Acme Newspictures.

Early World War II saw him serving as an overseas war correspondent for NEA and Acme in the Central and Pacific theaters. He covered the arrival of Gen. Douglas MacArthur in Australia, and was with the U.S. forces in New Zealand, New Caledonia, Fiji, Hawaii, Samoa, and the New Hebrides at various times.

COMMISSIONED in the Marine Corps in 1942, he was public relations officer for the Third Amphibious Corps at the Bougainville and Guam landings.

On his return to the U.S. he became executive officer of the Marine Corps Public Information Office in New York, handling all "leatherneck" dealings with magazines, syndicates, book publishers and the broadcasting media.

Returning to overseas duty in 1945, he was attached to V Amphibious Corps, assigned to the occupation of Kyushu and southern Honshu. He served in Japan for five months in charge of public information for the corps' area, with his duties including advising the commanding general on matters pertaining to the Japanese press and censoring Japanese newspaper material.

When he returned to the U.S. in January of 1946 he had completed 34 months of Pacific duty including four major operations.

His first post-war civilian job was with Look Magazine's book department as picture editor in 1946 and 1947. While there he was responsible for two Look books, "Look at America, the South," and "The Official Picture Story of the FBI."

With that station he was in charge of establishing KTLA's general policies and procedures for news coverage plus the supervision of programs in the public service, special events and educational fields.

HE WAS DIRECTLY responsible for 14 weekly television programs which won numerous national and regional awards from such organizations as the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Academy of Arts and Sciences, the American Legion and the National Safety Council.

In the special events category he coordinated and produced from Chicago KTLA's special coverage of the 1952 national conventions. He participated in the coverage of the first atomic bomb explosion to be televised. He headed the station's coverage of the First Marin Division's embarkation for Korea, and of extensive Army and Navy maneuvers.

KTLA was recognized as the Southland's undisputed leader in the field of public service television.

And from 1947 to 1952 Rice was happy with his KTLA responsibilities — until there came the realization that educational television offered him even greater opportunities to develop the type of TV programming to which he was dedicated.

KQED broadcasts on Channel 9, one of 256 television channels set aside for educational TV by the Federal Communications Commission in 1952. It is owned and operated by the Bay Area Educational Television Assn., a nonprofit community corporation. Under the terms of its franchise, KQED must operate as a non-commercial station and cannot accept advertising.

Rice quips: "We've been even more non-profit than we were supposed to be."

THE STATION has had hard going financially at times since its first test pattern was broadcast April 5, 1954, using a four-year old transmitter purchased from KPIX Inc. and converted from Channel 5 to Channel 9. When regular programming was launched on June 10, 1954, KQED had a staff of less than 10 persons and barely $30,000 in the bank. The first programs consisted entirely of film and kinescopes and totalled six hours per week concentrated in two nights. Three months later, on Sept. 16, KQED broadcast its first regularly scheduled live program, Kaleidoscope, which still appears on its log.

During the first two years of operation KQED originated its programs from the John O'Connell Technical Institute using student camera crews. By the summer of 1955 Channel 9 was broadcasting five days a week. And a year later the first professional crews were hired, and the studios and offices were moved to their present location in a leased building, a converted garage, near downtown San Francisco.

The original transmitter was located on the roof of the Mark Hopkins Hotel on Nob Hill. In January of 1957 the transmitter was moved to San Bruno Mountain in northern San Mateo County. And two years later, following a special fund drive, KQED upped its transmitter power from 30 kilowatts to 156 kilowatts.

While KQED has been able to increase its budget steadily—from $102,652 in 1954-55 to approximately $360,000 this year—money has always been and still remains a problem.

Earlier this year Time Magazine carried a story about KQED's selection as winner of the Thomas Alva Edison Foundation award as the nation's outstanding educational TV station. And it noted that program director Rice had paid his own way back to New York to accept the award at a plush banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria because the station had no money to send him.

TWO MARINITES who play prominent roles in the operation of the Bay Area's educational TV station, KQED (Channel 9), confer on program plans. They are Jonathan Charles Rice of Ross, program director, and Dick Ford of Kentfield, star of the popular "Hop, Skip and Dance" show. A number of other Marin residents also hold key positions with the station.

The world's most famous artists are now available on 4-TRACK STEREO TAPE. 4-Track Tapes are recorded with a two-channel stereo program in each direction. This permits twice as much music to be contained on one 4 Track 7½ inch reel. Tape has many advantages over records: it is the most perfect recording medium; its fidelity remains unchanged even after thousands of hours of use; tapes don't get scratched and worn out.

By building your library of stereo music with tapes, you are building a permanent treasure of music in its highest quality. The same quality of the original master tapes on which the musical programs were recorded.

Effective October 15th, we are launching a Catania Sound Tape Club. For every tape purchased, the customer will receive a tape merchandise ticket. These tickets may be used to purchase more 4-Track Tapes. Visit our Tape Department and get all of the details. While here, pick up your free copy of the new 4-Track Tape catalog.

If you do not own a 4-track tape recorder, let us show you the new model Sony Sterecorders, and the Ampex units. Remember, Music Sounds Best on Tape.

If you wish, send us a card with your name and address and we will send you your copy of the new Tape Catalog.

current annual budget of $360,000 for a year's operations "represents about the cost of one Bob Hope spectacular."

Revenue comes from several sources. Memberships and small contributions total about 29 per cent of the budget. There are now more than 7,000 KQED members who pay from $10 to $1,000 a year. Gifts from industries and wealthy individuals make up another 20 per cent of the auction, a traditional and colorful event, raises about 10 per cent of the needed funds. Last June's net was $42,000. And the remaining 41 per cent comes from production contracts—with the National Educational Television Network, with colleges and schools, with foundations and professional societies, etc.

With 7,100 "members" to answer to, it might seem that program director Rice would have his problems in satisfying so many bosses. But, he says, the KQED staff has been remarkably free from such interference.

KQED has also made it a policy not to use its facilities to plug community causes and fund drives, no matter how worthy.

"WE GET requests, but we tell them we can't do public relations for their group because there are just too many other groups who would feel they are entitled to the same assistance," Rice says. "And if we did it for them all, then no one would watch our station."

KQED programming largely falls in five categories:

1. Constructive, wholesome entertainment for children.
2. Programs that teach skills to adults.
3. Cultural entertainment.
4. Community affairs.
5. And teaching students through TV.

KQED does not duck controversy. "But we do try to be fair and present both sides," Rice says.

Programs on controversial topics result in surprisingly few complaints from viewers, Rice states. This, he believes, is because of the maturity of the audience. The largest protest to be stirred up to date came from opponents of fluoridation after the showing of a Harvard Medical School produced film supporting fluoridation.

Rice estimates that KQED has some 400,000 viewers who during a week or 10 day period watch at least a couple of KQED shows.

The current discussion show, "Open End," presided over and produced by David Susskind, is drawing the largest viewing audience in KQED history.

RICE FINDS his programs from several sources in addition to those produced by KQED itself. Many were filmed for the National Education Television Network and paid for by the Education Television and Radio Center in New York. It is now operating on a terminal grant from the Ford Foundation and is seeking independent support.

But shows produced live or on film by KQED itself remain the basic fare on Channel 9.

That fare varies from jazz to classical music, from discussions of Zen to discussions of politics, from instruction in languages and science to instruction in Japanese painting.

"In all of our programming, we are governed by respect for the intelligence and integrity of our viewers," Rice says.

Rice lives with his wife, Kathleen, son Jeff, 11, and daughters Kathy, 9, and May, 4, in a redwood-log home on Lagunitas Road, Ross.

RICE'S LONG hours at KQED leave him litttle time for other interests. But he enjoys fishing and camping with his family. And Pre-Columbian Art is a hobby in which he is keenly interested.

Rice points out that he is not Marin's only link to KQED.

For instance, public affairs director Richard Moore, currently on a nine months leave of absence for a fellowship at Columbia University and the Columbia Broadcasting System, lives in Mill Valley. So does station engineer Hank McGill. And such Marinites as Alan Watts, Dick Ford, William Winter, Ed Radenzel and S. I. Hayakawa are or have been the principals of Channel 9 programs.

E. G. Valens of Mill Valley is a writer-producer for whose talents Rice has sincere admiration.

First and foremost, Rice's association with KQED has brought him the gratification that comes from a position which offers him the opportunity to serve the public interest. But it has also brought him other good things including honors, both personal and for the station, and the acquaintance of many of the world's leading figures.

IN ADDITION to the aforementioned Edison Foundation award, KQED has also been the recipient of many other awards including a local public service citation in 1955, a Sylvania Award in 1958, six Ohio State Institute awards, a National Safety Council award in 1957, the Northern California Academy of Television award in 1955, and the California State Fair and Exposition silver medal for excellence in 1959.

The "awards" which Rice appreciates most, however, are those bestowed upon him by television viewers when they turn their dials away from westerns, the mysteries and the situation comedies flooding the commercial channels. And they watch instead, one of the thought-provoking, stimulating KQED shows.

It may be salty old Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery recalling his battles of World War II, and sandwiching in a few observations on the current world situation. It may be a lively "Open End" panel discussion of a wide range of topics. It may be a symphony orchestra in concert. Or it may be a report on the United Nations.

IN HIGH SCHOOL DAYS

How 'Mum Grower Caught The Fever

In the case of Homer F. Crowell of San Anselmo, president of the Chrysanthemum Society of Marin and chairman of the organization's 12th annual show to be held next weekend, it was a series of factors — including a school project, football and a broken leg—that first turned his interest toward 'mums back in his high school days.

Harking back to those high school days, Crowell recalls that "as a member of the animal husbandry and horticulture class, I was asked to set up an exhibit for public view at the spring open house at our school.

"This was a competitive sort of thing, and ribbons were awarded. My plant propagation section, which was loaded with 'mums, won me my first blue ribbon."

ONE TYPE of 'mum was of particular interest to young Crowell—the big incurve, because of its football-like shape.

For football was a game that was dear to the heart of the high schooler.

Came the next fall and on the football gridiron Crowell suffered a broken leg. His football career was over. But the time he had spent on the 'mums continued to bear fruit as the flowers thrived in the Crowell yard.

The floral shop owner in the town (San Bernardino) noticed the blooms and decided they were of sufficient quality to offer her customers.

She called at the Crowell home to purchase the blooms. Young Homer was still in bed with his broken leg "tied to the darndest maze of pipes and sandbags you ever saw."

The professional recognition extended his flower-growing prowess served to brighten what had become dreary and monotonous days for the bedfast, usually active youth.

"I believe that event helped to make chrysanthemums my favorite flower from then on," he says.

DURING THE years that followed conditions often arose that prohibited Crowell from indulging in that interest. But whenever gardening was possible, chrysanthemums were certain to be included.

"My interest in growing choice blooms and particularly exhibition types has to be traced to my moving to Marin County in 1949 from Southern California," he says.

"It seemed to me that the whole area was one great garden," he recalls. "And when I attended the first 'mum show of the Chrysanthemum Society of Marin that year, it proved to me that Marin was perfect for 'mums. The colors seemed so much richer and the quality shown was such a challenge to me that I was again determined to enjoy the culture of these beautiful flowers."

Crowell describes himself as "purely an amateur when it comes to growing 'mums. The sole purpose for growing them is the satisfaction I receive from the mass of color, and the quality that can be developed by care and patience."

He is a carpenter for the California State Department of Corrections by trade.

CROWELL SAYS that accomplishments by dedicated 'mum culturists during the past decade in developing new types and improving growing methods have elevated the chrysanthemum to the status of one of our most valuable flowers commercially.

The home gardener is recognizing this by using the 'mum more and more as the most effective color contributor in his fall garden.

Crowell adds that the keeping qualities of the cut flower and the flexible possibilities for pot culture are other advantages of the versatile 'mum.

He says he and his fellow Marin enthusiasts grow the flowers not only for home use, but also to explore the possibilities of producing outstanding blooms through proper care and treatment.

This, too, is the purpose of the Chrysanthemum Society of Marin, as will be demonstrated at the annual show next weekend—Saturday from 2 to 9:30 p.m. and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.—at the First National Bank of San Rafael. It will be open to the public.

Show theme this year will be "Hawaiian Echo," and special emphasis is being placed on the arrangement division with three sections—amateur, open and junior.

AWARDS, including cash prizes, will be made in all divisions with special recognition for the best in the theme flowers (Paradise), best in companion theme flowers (Moonstones), best cut flower in show, best flower in show (professional), and sweepstakes trophy for members only.

Both non-members and members of the society can enter. Entries are to be made Friday night, except in the arrangements division which can be entered Saturday morning.

If you, too, catch the 'mum fever after attending the show, you are also invited to join and take in the regular meetings of the society.

Meet Marin's Sweet-Singing Adelines

They Like The Old Songs, Sung In Barbershop Style

Sweet Adeline!

Those two words invariably bring back nostalgic memories of the gay nineties, a happy and carefree time when a popular form of fun was to gather around the old player piano and sing the even older songs.

But nowadays the same two words have taken on new meaning for thousands of women in all walks of life throughout the U.S. and Canada.

Although Sweet Adelines is very similar to the men's organization, The Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America," there are no official ties between the two groups.

Sweet Adelines was founded in Tulsa, Okla., in 1947 by some women who decided that they could enjoy barbershop harmony just as much as the men. Since that time it has grown to international standing with a membership in excess of 100,000.

THE MARIN Chapter of Sweet Adelines was founded in 1955.

The idea of having a Sweet Adeline chapter in Marin County came when several of the wives of Barbershoppers banded together in order to aid a fund-raising project aimed at transporting the male group to Miami, Fla., for competition.

These women organized and received their charter in May of 1955. Since that time the group has participated in chorus competition three times and has placed well each time. It made a number of benefit appearances for civic functions and charitable organizations throughout the county. The Marin chapter presented a women's "barbershop revue" in April of 1956 and is making plans for another such parade in the near future.

Currently the group is working in preparation for competition in April of 1961 when they will be competing against similar choruses from all over Northern California, Arizona and Utah. In conjunction with this preparation, the group will be holding a membership drive during November in order to increase the size and quality of the chorus. Membership is open to women over 18 years of age who enjoy group singing.

The Marin Chapter meets every Monday night at the Adeline E. Kent School in Kentfield at 8 p.m. President of the group is Mrs. Earl Robertson of Mill Valley. Five of the original charter members are still active in the group.

"I ALWAYS enjoyed glee club in school," says Anna Brown of Belvedere-Tiburon. And so she grabbed the opportunity afforded her by membership in the Sweet Adelines to again enjoy the relaxation of singing for fun.

DONNA ROSE was a charter member of the San Francisco chapter of the Sweet Adelines. And so it was natural when she moved to Marin, she should become an active member of the Marin unit. She is a resident of San Anselmo.

"IT'S FUN AND a wonderful way to relax." With those words, Shirley Blair just about sums up the feelings of all Sweet Adelines as to why they attend the songfests. Shirley is another Adeline from Belvedere-Tiburon.

MARY E. BROWN says the Sweet Adelines offer her an opportunity to sing the old songs she likes so well. And furthermore, she adds, it affords her the desired chance to meet interesting and friendly people.

DIRECTOR Steve Carrick blows the chord on his pitchpipe at the start of a song, and also at the end of a song to determine whether his Sweet Adeline chorus has finished on pitch. They are Mrs. Rad Ingram, Mrs. Hugo Odetto, Mrs. John Harding, Mrs. William Hooks and Miss Betty Adams.

HE HAS studied music since he was 12 and began "barbershopping" some five years ago. Since that time he has served as assistant director of the Marin Saltaires, a male chorus, and is immediate past president of that group.

Carrick has sung with such quartets as the Frisco Four of "Music Man" fame, the Golden Gate Harmony Four, and, at present, with the Bay Town Four from Berkeley which is the fourth ranking quartet in the U.S. and Canada.

Not confining his singing strictly to barbershop, he also sings with the Dapper Dans of San Francisco, a professional musical comedy quartet.

He studies voice under Roy Johnston of San Rafael and is tenor soloist at St. John's Episcopal Church in Ross.

He points out that choruses are judged in five categories. First and most important, comes harmony accuracy. The chorus must at all times stay exactly on pitch — without benefit of accompaniment.

The arrangement of the song itself is the second category for judging. It must be one which is well fitted for barbershop singing.

NEXT COMES balance and blend—to make certain that all four parts of the chorus are in balance to produce a singleness of sound. If one voice or part is heard above the rest, the chorus is out of balance. Or if all the singers do not pronounce the words in the song exactly alike, the blend is destroyed.

Last but not least of the judging categories is stage presence — the general appearance and visual appeal of the chorus. Costume uniformity, smiles, motions, etc., are all important.

He insists that "anyone who likes to sing the good old songs and has the ability to carry a simple tune can be taught to sing good barbershop harmony and open up a whole new world of musical fun for themselves."

Mrs. Jennings Lyon, the group's publicity chairman, says "we would like to double our membership. That would give us lots of volume, and then maybe we can come into the 'winners' circle' in April."

Interested women are invited to contact the secretary, Mrs. Karl Wolff, at GLenwood 4-5887.

The Sweet Adelines are also soliciting another kind of telephone call. They say the chorus or quartet is available to entertain at special meetings and dinners. Interested groups can contact Mrs. Lyon at GLenwood 6-3965.

WHY DID the women join the Sweet Adelines?

Mrs. C. E. Crowell gives the basic reason which motivated most of them: "To sing the old songs and learn quartet singing."

Says Jo Lyon: "I wanted something to do. I had put in 10 years at Scout work plus other organizational work, and I thought Sweet Adelines would offer a change of pace that would be fun. It has been."

Mrs. George Ketron, a brand new grandmother, declares that "there is a certain 'oneness' about barbershop arrangements that I don't find in any other type of singing. It's for me."

Catherine Ingram notes that she comes from a family of barbershop singers. Son Jim has sung with the "Music Man" show. And Mrs. Ingram was eager to share their enjoyment of barbershop music.

Bobbie Carrick had a unique reason for joining. She's the busy director's wife. And, she says, "if you can't fight 'em, join 'em. This way I know I'll see Steve at least once a week."

Dorothy Odette, mother of nine children, says "it was a change from singing lullabies, which I have been doing for many years at home."

She adds: "People don't seem to gather around the piano and sing any more just for the joy of it. And joining our Sweet Adelines filled that lack for me."

Marion Harding, one of the co-founders of the Marin Adelines, notes that her interest in the movement is natural, since her husband is a charter member of Marin's Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America.

THIS, IT is apparent, is the basic motive of all the Marin Adelines. For the highpoint of their meetings come when they break up into small groups and go into what they call their "woodshedding" sessions — the informal singing of the old-time favorites.

BOOK REVIEWS

Pioneer's Colorful Account Of Trip West Good Reading

THE GILA TRAIL, by Benjamin Butler Harris; edited and annotated by Richard H. Dillon, University of Oklahoma Press, 162 pages, $4. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

Benjamin Butler Harris was a young Texas attorney who, partly for love of adventure and hope of wealth and partly to escape malaria that enfeebled him in East Texas, took the trail to the California gold country in March, 1849.

The trail he took was the Gila Trail, southernmost of the overland routes of the Argonauts, which ran within what is still Mexico from El Paso, Tex., to Agua Prieta.

Harris started with what was known as the Duvall company. Enroute, various companies of gold-bound immigrants merged, separated and re-merged, so that sometimes they moved as an army and sometimes as scattered squads.

Forty years later, to fulfill the requirement for membership in the San Bernardino County Society of California Pioneers, Harris wrote a memoir of the journey and of his subsequent experiences in the Mother Lode. His memory was sharp, his humor keen, and his account is easy and entertaining reading, salted with anecdote and rich with color.

Richard H. Dillon of Mill Valley, scholar of Californiana and librarian of the Sutro branch of the California State Library, has edited Harris's journal to produce "The Gila Trail." He also sets the stage with a "Dramatis Personae" which reads so remarkably like Hubert Howe Brancroft's writing as to be almost startling to one familiar with that great historian of early California.

Dillon's scholarship is unquestioned, but if the reader seeks the full enjoyment of Harris's salty narrative, he is advised to ignore the footnotes until he has read the book. Like most footnotes, they interfere rather badly with the continuity if read as they appear. (This reviewer is a strong believer in putting all the notes in the back of the book, where they can be read if and when wanted.)

The Stanford and University of California presses should be a bit ashamed to have allowed a gem like this to be published by the University of Oklahoma.

MILL VALLEYAN Richard H. Dillon, Sutro librarian, is responsible for the editing and anotation for "The Gila Trail," recollections of Benjamin Butler Harris, pioneer, of his 1849 journey to California. The University of Oklahoma Press is the publisher.

LOOK FROM TAMALPAIS

Wonder how many have been here, in the past
To behold the sights from up here

Look—the Heavens, and the sea unfold,
Look long the ships you can see,

Look to the north, San Rafael and the hills
Looking from the north to the East
The bay and five towns unfold—
Richmond, El Cerrito, Albany, Berkeley, Oakland,
I behold.

To the south San Francisco, built among the hills;
This breathtaking pose, just looking—standing still—
Dropping my head, Mill Valley at my feet,
Yes, in her beautiful redwood seat.
I bow my head, asking my Maker and yours,
Could anywhere else in the world compete?

Here's A Different Kind Of ABC Book That's Fun

An ABC book that is as much fun for the parent to read as it is for the child to look at is something to crow about.

Italian artist Bruno Munari has done an especially fine job not only illustrating his ABC book, but also giving us a text which is both original and full of humor.

His delicate feeling for form, space and color appeals to the art-minded grown-up reader, while the subject matter has special meaning to the child.

An ordinary housefly, which first appears on the F page, adds continuity to the book by reappearing again and again throughout the rest of the alphabet. The problem of Z is solved by a fly going Zzzz.

We especially liked S, a sack of stars and snow for Santa Claus, V, a vertical violet violin, and W, a watermelon on a wagon with a wooden wheel. But times have not completely changed for X still stands for a xylophone.

Munari is well known as a painter, sculptor, photographer, designer of books, toys and mobiles as well as author of six books.

LET'S PLAY HOUSE by Lois Lenski, Henry Z. Walck, 48 pages, $2. Reviewed by Claudia Royal.

For the little girl (or boy), ages 4 through 6, who likes to play house, this is a delightful book.

"Let's Play House" provides the young child with a mirror of his everyday life, showing him dramatic play—Lenski style. Beginning readers will enjoy the book, too.

Auntie Mame To Zip Through Ross Play Opening Thursday

The care with which ground crews inspect airplanes before they take off on trans-ocean hops is no more meticulous than the double-checking that stage managers go through to make certain of dozens of details before a theatrical performance starts.

But more than the usual precautions are going to be in order for each and every performance of "Auntie Mame" at the Barn in the Marin Art and Garden Center, running for three weekends beginning next Thursday night.

For this Ross Valley Players production, in addition to the usual huge number of props and scene changes which must be kept in proper working order, a considerable number of zippers will also have to be double checked.

THEY ARE THE zippers of the 20 spectacular costumes to be worn by Marie Rogers of Belvedere in her role as the stylish and effervescent "Auntie Mame."

At each performance, Mrs. Rogers is going to be zipped into and out of those costumes at a dizzying pace—from 20 to 40 seconds each. As she spins from a Chinese housecoat to a formal day-dress, from a riding habit to a mountain-climbing outfit, from a dinner gown to the sari of an East Indian aristocrat, she will require the help of two arduously rehearsed dressers, standing in the wings and ready to help her change not only main garments, but also jewelry, shoes, hats and hair-dos with split second timing.

The splendor of all this sartorial finery can be anticipated by all those who read the popular Patrick Dennis novel on which this stage version of "Auntie Mame" is based. In this play as in the novel, Mame is a woman for whom it is more important to be dressed in the latest style, and to be up to the latest trends in art, religion and wise-cracks, than it is to be in love.

The play follows her madcap adventures over a period of 18 years, frorm 1929 to 1947, as she raises a little nephew who unexpectedly is put into her care when suddenly orphaned, and it traces her through times of prosperity and times of poverty.

Since Mame's escapades are not only scattered chronologically over 18 years, but in widespread geographical locales as well, Mrs. Rogers' costume changes are an important part of the show. The effecting of these changes will be almost a show in itself, which the audience will not see. Certainly the backstage routine of the quick-changes is being rehearsed as carefully as the stage action.

AT EACH OF Mrs. Rogers' exits, the two dressers will stand ready to swoop on her and effect a head-to-toe transformation in a few seconds. By the beam of a small flashlight they will, for example, whisk off a velvet hostess gown, a shawl and slippers, and substitute a street-length chiffon number with matching shoes, suitable jewelry and a wig representing a different hair-style — all in 20 seconds.

Before the performances begin, all the wigs, jewelry, shoes and costumes have to be assembled in "the order of their appearance," to use the phrase usually reserved for programming a play's characters — and every zipper given a trial slide or so to insure its being in working order.

This is in the hope of there being no repetition at The Barn of an incident during the 20-month run of "Auntie Mame" in New York. One night when Rosalind Russell was playing Mame in New York, a slide fastener somehow got fouled up and would not slide. Elegant Mame made her entrance on time in the next scene, but carefully kept her back always turned away from the audience so that the quickly used safety pins that had been employed in the emergency wouldn't show. The audience was never the wiser, but the other players in the scene were somewhat startled that Miss Russell was not taking her usual stage positions.

"Auntie Mame" is the first in the Ross Valley Players three-play 1960-61 series. It will run the weekends of Oct. 20, 28 and Nov. 3. Tickets may be reserved at Orrick Travel Bureau, San Anselmo.

THE TASSLED TWENTIES are but one of the costume eras encompassed in the production, "Auntie Mame," being presented by the Ross Valley Players opening next Thursday at the Barn, Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross. Marie Rogers, center, playing the title role, will be zipped and hooked through some 20 costume changes. Her 32 supporting players, including Dorothy Schuster, Dora Blunden, Barbara Morrisey and Marie Michetti, comprise one of the biggest casts assembled for a Ross Players production. John Brebner, Sausalito, is the director. (Photo by Bert Howell)

Pioneer's Colorful Account Of Trip West Good Reading

THE GILA TRAIL, by Benjamin Butler Harris; edited and annotated by Richard H. Dillon, University of Oklahoma Press, 162 pages, $4. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

Benjamin Butler Harris was a young Texas attorney who, partly for love of adventure and hope of wealth and partly to escape malaria that enfeebled him in East Texas, took the trail to the California gold country in March, 1849.

The trail he took was the Gila Trail, southernmost of the overland routes of the Argonauts, which ran within what is still Mexico from El Paso, Tex., to Agua Prieta.

Harris started with what was known as the Duvall company. Enroute, various companies of gold-bound immigrants merged, separated and re-merged, so that sometimes they moved as an army and sometimes as scattered squads.

Forty years later, to fulfill the requirement for membership in the San Bernardino County Society of California Pioneers, Harris wrote a memoir of the journey and of his subsequent experiences in the Mother Lode. His memory was sharp, his humor keen, and his account is easy and entertaining reading, salted with anecdote and rich with color.

Richard H. Dillon of Mill Valley, scholar of Californiana and librarian of the Sutro branch of the California State Library, has edited Harris's journal to produce "The Gila Trail." He also sets the stage with a "Dramatis Personae" which reads so remarkably like Hubert Howe Brancroft's writing as to be almost startling to one familiar with that great historian of early California.

Dillon's scholarship is unquestioned, but if the reader seeks the full enjoyment of Harris's salty narrative, he is advised to ignore the footnotes until he has read the book. Like most footnotes, they interfere rather badly with the continuity if read as they appear. (This reviewer is a strong believer in putting all the notes in the back of the book, where they can be read if and when wanted.)

The Stanford and University of California presses should be a bit ashamed to have allowed a gem like this to be published by the University of Oklahoma.

MILL VALLEYAN Richard H. Dillon, Sutro librarian, is responsible for the editing and anotation for "The Gila Trail," recollections of Benjamin Butler Harris, pioneer, of his 1849 journey to California. The University of Oklahoma Press is the publisher.

Stanley Ellin, one of our finest craftsmen in the mystery short story and novel field, ventures into new pastures in this book. It is billed as "a novel about different kinds of love."

More specifically, it is the story of young Daniel Egan and the shadow which hung over him and from which he could not escape, no matter how hard he tried. It was the shadow of Ben Gennaro, football star and in death even more the idol than he was in life.

Daniel's conviction that he had betrayed his idol and his struggle for redemption form the nucleus of this novel.

Ellin writes with great feeling and considerable finesse. And he drives home well his final lesson as Daniel discovers that he is not alone in having an idol to appease. And in his further discovery that he had stumbled upon the most effective means of burying the past—wholehearted dedication to the present.

This is a serious and superior novel. And it serves notice that we can expect much from Ellin in the future.

Wonder how many have been here, in the past
To behold the sights from up here
And to breath this mountain air.

Look—the Heavens, and the sea unfold,
Look long the ships you can see,
The ships of the world sail upon this deep sea.

Look to the north, San Rafael and the hills
Looking from the north to the East
The bay and five towns unfold—
Richmond, El Cerrito, Albany, Berkeley, Oakland,

To the south San Francisco, built among the hills;
This breathtaking pose, just looking—standing still—
Dropping my head, Mill Valley at my feet,

Here's A Different Kind Of ABC Book That's Fun

An ABC book that is as much fun for the parent to read as it is for the child to look at is something to crow about.

Italian artist Bruno Munari has done an especially fine job not only illustrating his ABC book, but also giving us a text which is both original and full of humor.

His delicate feeling for form, space and color appeals to the art-minded grown-up reader, while the subject matter has special meaning to the child.

An ordinary housefly, which first appears on the F page, adds continuity to the book by reappearing again and again throughout the rest of the alphabet. The problem of Z is solved by a fly going Zzzz.

We especially liked S, a sack of stars and snow for Santa Claus, V, a vertical violet violin, and W, a watermelon on a wagon with a wooden wheel. But times have not completely changed for X still stands for a xylophone.

Munari is well known as a painter, sculptor, photographer, designer of books, toys and mobiles as well as author of six books.

Marin Plans Tribute To One Of Its Early-Day Landscape Artists

Paintings By Jack Wisby To Be Displayed In Special Showing At San Anselmo Gallery

The proud owners of Wisby paintings will share their treasures with the public at an art showing to open Sunday, Oct. 23, at the Torrance Gallery in San Anselmo.

IT IS PLANNED not only as a tribute to Wisby but also as a reminder to Marinites of the many fine landscape artists for whom this scenic area has served as home and working grounds.

Jack Wisby was born in England in 1870, arrived in San Francisco at the age of 27 and married Mary Anne Fossey in 1897. For a time he was employed as a packer for Phelps and Adams, wholesale jewelry firm, and later worked for Shreve and Co. as an engraver.

He was an intimate friend of both William Keith and Thad Welch, well-known early California painters.

Wisby came to Lagunitas in Marin County in 1906 and lived on the Maillard Ranch, then known as Lower Ranch. He stayed there for five years, painting many scenes of the Lucas Valley, San Geronimo hills and other ranch properties for the owners.

HE MOVED to Inverness for a time, and then on to Bolinas in 1912. There he built a small studio home on top of Little Mesa. It was designed solely for his living and studio purposes.

He moved to San Rafael in 1918 and lived on Harcourt Street, keeping the Bolinas house for summers and weekends. In 1925 the Wisby clan held a big family gathering to burn the mortgage. It was a happy occasion, considering that in those lean years the artist had been able not only to earn a living but also accumulate some small funds through his paintings.

In his early years Wisby had spent much of his time traveling through the Yosemite and Tahoe areas, working on sketches and scenic views which were later transferred to larger paintings. Included are some of his outstanding work including "El Capitan," Desolation Valley scenes, and numerous views of the Yosemite Valley.

While residing in Inverness, he made his home at the old Chamot house in the middle 1920s and painted many scenes of that area. His old friends still remember the tea parties for which he was host every afternoon at 3 p. m.

The artist was accomplished as a writer and correspondent as well as with the brush.

DURING HIS later years while living in San Rafael he held several showings in the old Hotel Rafael prior to its destruction by fire in 1928.

His wife, Mary Anne Wisby, was also a talented artist and many pieces of her work are still the property of the old families of Marin.

She was active as a teacher in the Chinese Mission School in San Francisco's Chinatown. She was also an expert on knitting, crocheting and embroidering.

The show will run for three weeks.

Many of Marin's oldest families including the Lewis Peppers, the Fred Dicksons, the Lawrence Moores, Dr. Grace Kleiser, Mrs. Milton H. Esperg, Dr. Leo Stanley, the Jordan Martinellis, the McNears, the Arthur Barrs, and the John Pages are donating their Wisby pictures for the showing.

It is hoped that still others will offer their paintings — either for showing only, or for sale—prior to the show date.

PICTURES should be delivered to the Torrance Gallery promptly for appraisal or pricing, or to be hung as part of the show.

Pictures thus delivered will be insured while in the possession of Torrance. Time should be allowed for restoration work and cleaning, if necessary.

All pictures submitted should be identified as to location of the work or the subject, and the owner's name, address, and telephone number, attached to the backs of the paintings.

Arrangements to have paintings picked up can be made by calling GLenwood 4-2240 or GLenwood 4-3317.

JACK WISBY, born in England, came to San Francisco at the age of 27, and was one of Marin's best-known early-day landscape painters. An exhibition of his paintings will open at the Torrance Gallery in San Anselmo on Oct. 23.

Auntie Mame To Zip Through Ross Play Opening Thursday

The care with which ground crews inspect airplanes before they take off on trans-ocean hops is no more meticulous than the double-checking that stage managers go through to make certain of dozens of details before a theatrical performance starts.

Disaster can result if a stage manager takes anything for granted.

But more than the usual precautions are going to be in order for each and every performance of "Auntie Mame" at the Barn in the Marin Art and Garden Center, running for three weekends beginning next Thursday night.

For this Ross Valley Players production, in addition to the usual huge number of props and scene changes which must be kept in proper working order, a considerable number of zippers will also have to be double checked.

THEY ARE THE zippers of the 20 spectacular costumes to be worn by Marie Rogers of Belvedere in her role as the stylish and effervescent "Auntie Mame."

At each performance, Mrs. Rogers is going to be zipped into and out of those costumes at a dizzying pace—from 20 to 40 seconds each. As she spins from a Chinese housecoat to a formal day-dress, from a riding habit to a mountain-climbing outfit, from a dinner gown to the sari of an East Indian aristocrat, she will require the help of two arduously rehearsed dressers, standing in the wings and ready to help her change not only main garments, but also jewelry, shoes, hats and hair-dos with split second timing.

The splendor of all this sartorial finery can be anticipated by all those who read the popular Patrick Dennis novel on which this stage version of "Auntie Mame" is based. In this play as in the novel, Mame is a woman for whom it is more important to be dressed in the latest style, and to be up to the latest trends in art, religion and wise-cracks, than it is to be in love.

The play follows her madcap adventures over a period of 18 years, frorm 1929 to 1947, as she raises a little nephew who unexpectedly is put into her care when suddenly orphaned, and it traces her through times of prosperity and times of poverty.

Since Mame's escapades are not only scattered chronologically over 18 years, but in widespread geographical locales as well, Mrs. Rogers' costume changes are an important part of the show. The effecting of these changes will be almost a show in itself, which the audience will not see. Certainly the backstage routine of the quick-changes is being rehearsed as carefully as the stage action.

AT EACH OF Mrs. Rogers' exits, the two dressers will stand ready to swoop on her and effect a head-to-toe transformation in a few seconds. By the beam of a small flashlight they will, for example, whisk off a velvet hostess gown, a shawl and slippers, and substitute a street-length chiffon number with matching shoes, suitable jewelry and a wig representing a different hair-style — all in 20 seconds.

Before the performances begin, all the wigs, jewelry, shoes and costumes have to be assembled in "the order of their appearance," to use the phrase usually reserved for programming a play's characters — and every zipper given a trial slide or so to insure its being in working order.

Stepping Stones Lead Guests To Hospitality

The Alfred C. Bach home at 142 Margarita Drive, San Rafael, provides an interesting example of the landscape architect and contractor's ingenuity in devising means to lead guests to an entrance door.

He was an intimate friend of both William Keith and Thad Welch, well-known early California painters.

Wisby came to Lagunitas in Marin County in 1906 and lived on the Maillard Ranch, then known as Lower Ranch. He stayed there for five years, painting many scenes of the Lucas Valley, San Geronimo hills and other ranch properties for the owners.

HE MOVED to Inverness for a time, and then on to Bolinas in 1912. There he built a small studio home on top of Little Mesa. It was designed solely for his living and studio purposes.

He moved to San Rafael in 1918 and lived on Harcourt Street, keeping the Bolinas house for summers and weekends. In 1925 the Wisby clan held a big family gathering to burn the mortgage. It was a happy occasion, considering that in those lean years the artist had been able not only to earn a living but also accumulate some small funds through his paintings.

In his early years Wisby had spent much of his time traveling through the Yosemite and Tahoe areas, working on sketches and scenic views which were later transferred to larger paintings. Included are some of his outstanding work including "El Capitan," Desolation Valley scenes, and numerous views of the Yosemite Valley.

While residing in Inverness, he made his home at the old Chamot house in the middle 1920s and painted many scenes of that area. His old friends still remember the tea parties for which he was host every afternoon at 3 p. m.

Members of his family remember him for his great story-telling ability. The haunted houses of Inverness and similar "wild tales" were his favorites.

The artist was accomplished as a writer and correspondent as well as with the brush.

DURING HIS later years while living in San Rafael he held several showings in the old Hotel Rafael prior to its destruction by fire in 1928.

His wife, Mary Anne Wisby, was also a talented artist and many pieces of her work are still the property of the old families of Marin.

She was active as a teacher in the Chinese Mission School in San Francisco's Chinatown. She was also an expert on knitting, crocheting and embroidering.

A NUMBER OF the artist's relatives are still living in the Bay Area, among them Audrey L. Rowe of Kentfield, Elizabeth Thaxter of Berkeley, George Fossey of Fairfax; Horace Glasson of Bolinas; Laura Bours of Oakland; Mrs. William Sturk of Berkeley; Mrs. C. Lutgen of Berkeley; Mrs. Elizabeth Moore of the East Bay; William Sturk Jr. of Orinda; Mrs. Edward Ray of Oakland; and Jack Glasson of Bolinas.

The show will run for three weeks.

Many of Marin's oldest families including the Lewis Peppers, the Fred Dicksons, the Lawrence Moores, Dr. Grace Kleiser, Mrs. Milton H. Esperg, Dr. Leo Stanley, the Jordan Martinellis, the McNears, the Arthur Barrs, and the John Pages are donating their Wisby pictures for the showing.

It is hoped that still others will offer their paintings — either for showing only, or for sale—prior to the show date.

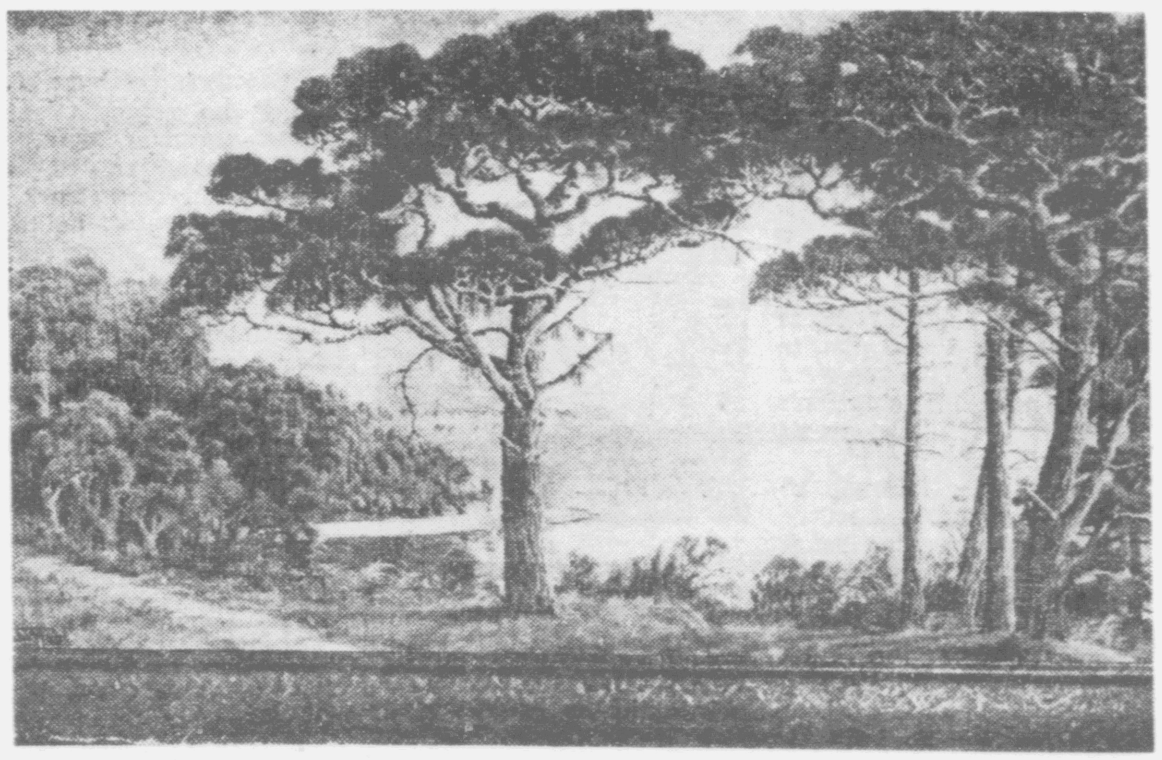
PICTURES should be delivered to the Torrance Gallery promptly for appraisal or pricing, or to be hung as part of the show.

Pictures thus delivered will be insured while in the possession of Torrance. Time should be allowed for restoration work and cleaning, if necessary.

All pictures submitted should be identified as to location of the work or the subject, and the owner's name, address, and telephone number, attached to the backs of the paintings.

Arrangements to have paintings picked up can be made by calling GLenwood 4-2240 or GLenwood 4-3317.

JACK WISBY, born in England, came to San Francisco at the age of 27, and was one of Marin's best-known early-day landscape painters. An exhibition of his paintings will open at the Torrance Gallery in San Anselmo on Oct. 23.



LANDSCAPES of Marin and other Northern California scenes will be included in the show of Jack Wisby paintings at the Torrance Gallery in San Anselmo. The one that appears above will be included in the exhibition which will open Oct. 23 and run for three weeks. (Independent-Journal photo)

THIS WOODEN SUN DECK added by L. J. Meszaros to his 40-year-old inverness home along with separate living quarters fits in nicely with the original structure built by Judge O. L. Shaffter. When the house was first constructed, there were no trees or shrubs on the mesa where it stands, the area having been laid bare by the developer.

Stepping Stones Lead Guests To Hospitality

The Alfred C. Bach home at 142 Margarita Drive, San Rafael, provides an interesting example of the landscape architect and contractor's ingenuity in devising means to lead guests to an entrance door.

Inside the entrance guests find the entrance area, outdoor living area and pool and play area have all been consolidated in a single coordinated area.

The fire pit also doubles as a central drain with a specially designed concrete collecting box and sediment filter. Note the sleeve in the concrete at the edge, designed to receive swinging barbecue grate.

The wood screens in background will one day be all but covered by espaliered citrus and vines.

For Dignity In The Garden, There's Nothing Like Tulip

There's nothing in the garden to match a Tulip's dignity. When grown to perfection, it is the very essence of formality, and no amount of plant science has ever bred this quality out of it. Not that any plantsman in the world would ever want to.

If the Tulip has any fault at all, it might be a reluctance to let down its hair and go informal. Frankly, however, we like this uncompromising attitude. It's an uncommon commodity in this day and age.

The California Association of Nurserymen points out that because of this habit, the Tulip is often best planted in beds by itself. If you would soften the formal appearance just a little, try planting Pansies or Sweet Alyssum in the beds over the bulbs. If you would enhance the formality, plant the bulbs closely together and forget the cover crop of annuals.

The California climate is not a Tulip's idea of ideal growing conditions. Our mild winters and unusually balmy springs tend to force top growth from the bulbs before they have really established a good root system. The result is often too few roots to support a tall stem and full-blown bloom.

If this has happened to you, try deeper planting. of the bulbs. We've seen experiments with planting depths up to one foot and invariably the size and height of stem and bloom has increased proportionately to the depth.

Another trick if you're seeking true formality from your Tulips is to make sure they are all planted at the same depth. We don't know any good way to do this except to dig a hole the size of the planting area, level the bottom and set all the bulbs in place before filling the hole.

As to color combinations, plant to suit your taste. Your C.A.N. nurseryman usually has color prints of the individual bulbs he sells and you can't go far wrong with any or all of them.

The Dumbcane Isn't Fussy, But It's A Handsome Plant

The Dumbcane isn't at all fussy. It thrives in either cool or warm rooms and tolerates dry or humid air, poor or good light.

But if you want it to grow to perfection, give it a sunny window and then shade it from the direct rays with a filmy net curtain, water it regularly and grow it in a temperature of 65 to 70 degrees.

To keep the plant growing straight, turn the pot a quarter way round each day.

When the plant grows too big for its pot, transplant it to a larger clay pot, using a soil mixture of equal parts potting soil, peat moss, sand, and vermiculite. Add two tablespoons of dehydrated cow manure to every eight-inch clay potful.

Thereafter, feed monthly with a soluble plant food mixed with water according to manufacturer's directions.

Autumn Berries Popular In State

Berried shrubs are one of our prime sources of fall color in California. And what we lack in autumn foliage, we make up for in autumn berries.

Azaleas Can Provide Autumn Garden Color

You think of Azaleas as spring blooming shrubs, but a look in any nursery this month will usually turn up a variety or two showing plenty of color right now. Many of these bloom now and again in spring with scattered color right through the winter months.

Keep thinking of them as spring bloomers if you will, but don't turn your head from their fall possibilities.

A CHECKLIST FOR MARIN GARDENERS

- Plant plenty of spring bulbs in pots and other containers to provide your garden with portable color.
- Keep leaves raked up as they fall. It's not only easier, it makes the garden more pleasant to live in during fall.
- Look around your area for signs of fall color and plan to plant the best of it in your own garden for next year.
- Don't uproot Dahlias until the tops have died back. Like most bulbs, they store energy from the fading top growth.
- Evergreen shrubs and trees planted now take advantage of winter rains and establish themselves more fully. In the spring, they are ready for a good growth.

For Dignity In The Garden, There's Nothing Like Tulip

There's nothing in the garden to match a Tulip's dignity. When grown to perfection, it is the very essence of formality, and no amount of plant science has ever bred this quality out of it. Not that any plantsman in the world would ever want to.

If the Tulip has any fault at all, it might be a reluctance to let down its hair and go informal. Frankly, however, we like this uncompromising attitude. It's an uncommon commodity in this day and age.

The California Association of Nurserymen points out that because of this habit, the Tulip is often best planted in beds by itself. If you would soften the formal appearance just a little, try planting Pansies or Sweet Alyssum in the beds over the bulbs. If you would enhance the formality, plant the bulbs closely together and forget the cover crop of annuals.

The California climate is not a Tulip's idea of ideal growing conditions. Our mild winters and unusually balmy springs tend to force top growth from the bulbs before they have really established a good root system. The result is often too few roots to support a tall stem and full-blown bloom.

If this has happened to you, try deeper planting. of the bulbs. We've seen experiments with planting depths up to one foot and invariably the size and height of stem and bloom has increased proportionately to the depth.

Another trick if you're seeking true formality from your Tulips is to make sure they are all planted at the same depth. We don't know any good way to do this except to dig a hole the size of the planting area, level the bottom and set all the bulbs in place before filling the hole.

As to color combinations, plant to suit your taste. Your C.A.N. nurseryman usually has color prints of the individual bulbs he sells and you can't go far wrong with any or all of them.

The Dumbcane Isn't Fussy, But It's A Handsome Plant

The Dumbcane isn't at all fussy. It thrives in either cool or warm rooms and tolerates dry or humid air, poor or good light.

But if you want it to grow to perfection, give it a sunny window and then shade it from the direct rays with a filmy net curtain, water it regularly and grow it in a temperature of 65 to 70 degrees.

To keep the plant growing straight, turn the pot a quarter way round each day.

When the plant grows too big for its pot, transplant it to a larger clay pot, using a soil mixture of equal parts potting soil, peat moss, sand, and vermiculite. Add two tablespoons of dehydrated cow manure to every eight-inch clay potful.

Thereafter, feed monthly with a soluble plant food mixed with water according to manufacturer's directions.

Autumn Berries Popular In State

Berried shrubs are one of our prime sources of fall color in California. And what we lack in autumn foliage, we make up for in autumn berries.

Azaleas Can Provide Autumn Garden Color

You think of Azaleas as spring blooming shrubs, but a look in any nursery this month will usually turn up a variety or two showing plenty of color right now. Many of these bloom now and again in spring with scattered color right through the winter months.

Keep thinking of them as spring bloomers if you will, but don't turn your head from their fall possibilities.

A CHECKLIST FOR MARIN GARDENERS

- Plant plenty of spring bulbs in pots and other containers to provide your garden with portable color.
- Keep leaves raked up as they fall. It's not only easier. it makes the garden more pleasant to live in during fall.
- Look around your area for signs of fall color and plan to plant the best of it in your own garden for next year.
- Don't uproot Dahlias until the tops have died back. Like most bulbs, they store energy from the fading top growth.
- Evergreen shrubs and trees planted now take advantage of winter rains and establish themselves more fully. In the spring, they are ready for a good growth.

'Great Debate' Idea A Good One, And It Has Spread To Local Races

ROBERT W. SARNOFF, chairman of the board of National Broadcasting Company, declines to accept credit for originating the idea for "The Great Debate" series between the presidential rivals, although it has been generally attributed to him.

More properly, Sarnoff says, the credit should go to the late Senator Blair Moody of Michigan.

Moody was the former newspaperman who was appointed to the Senate in 1952 to fill out an unexpired term. He was defeated in a close election for the Senate seat later that same year, and he died in 1954.

Sarnoff recalls that "in July of 1952 the idea was put forward by Blair Moody, for many years the Washington correspondent of the Detroit News and at that time a U.S. senator from Michigan. It was an idea that quickly captured the imagination of broadcasters."

Regardless of whom deserves the credit, the idea for face-to-face televised debate between the presidential contenders is a good one. And the public has benefited from it. Both the presidential aspirants deserve credit for their courage in agreeing to the debate, for it is in many respects a risky experience for them. One small slip of the tongue on the part of either one of them could prove costly.

The debate is, of course, of greatest value to those viewers who put less emphasis upon the "image" being created or attempted by Nixon and Kennedy, and greater stress upon their actual programs and criticisms of each other's stands.

Certainly such statements become more meaningful when the speaker knows that his opponent is present, ready to instantly dispute and challenge his assertions.

Sarnoff has announced plans to adopt the "Great Debate" format to local political contests and issues on NBC radio and television stations.

For instance California's controversial water program is slated for an airing on San Francisco station KNBC. (KPIX-TV will look into this same issue tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. on "Decisions 1960.")

NBC stations are also planning "Great Debate" type discussions for several regions in which there are important and lively congressional races.

As things now stand, however, Sarnoff notes, the stations will have to be careful to choose issues without candidates, or contests in which there are only two candidates.

The suspension of the equal-time provision applies only to the presidential and vice presidential candidates. In other races, minor party aspirants would be entitled to the same time as the major party candidates.

The minor parties, incidentally, are, as is to be expected, bitter about the lifting of the equal-time provision in this year's presidential campaign. They complain that it is they, not the major parties, which offer the really new ideas in American politics. And that it is the enunciation of these new ideas by the smaller parties that has brought about public pressure upon the major parties to, sooner or later, adopt many of those ideas.

There is some truth in that contention.

The answer would seem to lie in some kind of a compromise. And the American Broadcasting Company may have pointed the way to it when it recently gave the presidential aspirants of two of those minor parties a limited amount of free time on television to expound their views. The time—15 minutes apiece—was too brief. But at least it was an effort to answer the charge that the major parties were monopolizing television and the minor parties were being shut out.

After a wobbly start, the second edition proved to be a distinct improvement over the first. The guest panel of Bishop James Pike, Sterling Hayden and Eugene Burdick was excellent, providing some really interesting chatter.

So far Herb Caen, a standout as a big city newspaper columnist, has been miscast as co-host with William Winter. He and Winter do not work well in tandem. And Caen has appeared ill at ease and almost speechless. He will probably show to better advantage tomorrow night when the guests will be entertainment personalities and the talk of the theater and allied fields. At least KGO general manager Dave Sacks says the tape of the show "comes up to expectations of all concerned . . ."

But we have the feeling that KGO-TV is really missing the boat with Caen. It seems to us he would be more effective as host of another kind of local show—perhaps a filmed series in which the columnist would take viewers to some of the lesser known and off-beat haunts or to meet some of the more colorful characters of the San Francisco he knows so well.

FOR THOSE who may be wondering why KPIX-TV (Channel 5) is not carrying the fine CBS Workshop series on Sundays, we are told by the station that it will be picked up just as soon as the professional football season ends. It's nice to know that Bay Area viewers are not going to be permanently deprived of these fine plays.

'Great Debate' Idea A Good One, And It Has Spread To Local Races

ROBERT W. SARNOFF, chairman of the board of National Broadcasting Company, declines to accept credit for originating the idea for "The Great Debate" series between the presidential rivals, although it has been generally attributed to him.

More properly, Sarnoff says, the credit should go to the late Senator Blair Moody of Michigan.

Moody was the former newspaperman who was appointed to the Senate in 1952 to fill out an unexpired term. He was defeated in a close election for the Senate seat later that same year, and he died in 1954.

Sarnoff recalls that "in July of 1952 the idea was put forward by Blair Moody, for many years the Washington correspondent of the Detroit News and at that time a U.S. senator from Michigan. It was an idea that quickly captured the imagination of broadcasters."

Regardless of whom deserves the credit, the idea for face-to-face televised debate between the presidential contenders is a good one. And the public has benefited from it. Both the presidential aspirants deserve credit for their courage in agreeing to the debate, for it is in many respects a risky experience for them. One small slip of the tongue on the part of either one of them could prove costly.

The debate is, of course, of greatest value to those viewers who put less emphasis upon the "image" being created or attempted by Nixon and Kennedy, and greater stress upon their actual programs and criticisms of each other's stands.

Certainly such statements become more meaningful when the speaker knows that his opponent is present, ready to instantly dispute and challenge his assertions.

Sarnoff has announced plans to adopt the "Great Debate" format to local political contests and issues on NBC radio and television stations.

For instance California's controversial water program is slated for an airing on San Francisco station KNBC. (KPIX-TV will look into this same issue tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. on "Decisions 1960.")

NBC stations are also planning "Great Debate" type discussions for several regions in which there are important and lively congressional races.

As things now stand, however, Sarnoff notes, the stations will have to be careful to choose issues without candidates, or contests in which there are only two candidates.

The suspension of the equal-time provision applies only to the presidential and vice presidential candidates. In other races, minor party aspirants would be entitled to the same time as the major party candidates.

The minor parties, incidentally, are, as is to be expected, bitter about the lifting of the equal-time provision in this year's presidential campaign. They complain that it is they, not the major parties, which offer the really new ideas in American politics. And that it is the enunciation of these new ideas by the smaller parties that has brought about public pressure upon the major parties to, sooner or later, adopt many of those ideas.

There is some truth in that contention.

The answer would seem to lie in some kind of a compromise. And the American Broadcasting Company may have pointed the way to it when it recently gave the presidential aspirants of two of those minor parties a limited amount of free time on television to expound their views. The time—15 minutes apiece—was too brief. But at least it was an effort to answer the charge that the major parties were monopolizing television and the minor parties were being shut out.

After a wobbly start, the second edition proved to be a distinct improvement over the first. The guest panel of Bishop James Pike, Sterling Hayden and Eugene Burdick was excellent, providing some really interesting chatter.

So far Herb Caen, a standout as a big city newspaper columnist, has been miscast as co-host with William Winter. He and Winter do not work well in tandem. And Caen has appeared ill at ease and almost speechless. He will probably show to better advantage tomorrow night when the guests will be entertainment personalities and the talk of the theater and allied fields. At least KGO general manager Dave Sacks says the tape of the show "comes up to expectations of all concerned . . ."

But we have the feeling that KGO-TV is really missing the boat with Caen. It seems to us he would be more effective as host of another kind of local show—perhaps a filmed series in which the columnist would take viewers to some of the lesser known and off-beat haunts or to meet some of the more colorful characters of the San Francisco he knows so well.

Extemporaneous discussion of politics, religion, philosophy, etc., just does not seem to be Caen's dish.

FOR THOSE who may be wondering why KPIX-TV (Channel 5) is not carrying the fine CBS Workshop series on Sundays, we are told by the station that it will be picked up just as soon as the professional football season ends. It's nice to know that Bay Area viewers are not going to be permanently deprived of these fine plays.
